"I further aver that said reports were at times rendered to the said Day at the home of Donald Woodward, 2114 Lafayette place, Washington, D. C. I aver that the said Day was what is known as the 'contact man' between the real employer of said Thorne and the detective agency in this behalf and the said Ruddy acting as manager of the executive in Washington, D. C. It is my belief and I aver that the real employer of said detectives is Harry F. Sinclair, a defendant in this cause. I have not as yet been able to interview said Woodward and said Day and am therefore unable to state what they will say as to who enlisted their services in this matter.

"I aver that there have been since on or about Oct. 13, 1937, the date on which the jury was sworn in said cause, at various times, some or all of sixteen, [16] detective employees working in Washington as above set forth.

"I aver as will be more fully shown in detail in the accompanying affidavit of Walter M. Shea, that the activities of said detectives have been inimical to the proper administration of justice in this court, wholly improper and without warrant in law or otherwise.

"I aver that said reports show in detail and by clear implication that the purpose of much of the work done by said detectives was to find contacts and relationships of the jurors for some ulterior and improper purpose."

Shea Makes Affidavit.

Assistant District Attorney Shea's affidavit reads as follows:

"I am an assistant United States attorney for the District of Columbia. I have knowledge that on Oct. 11, 1937, a search warrant was issued by the United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, directed to the deputy United States Marshals John J. Clark, and Constable Criminals to search room 111-E, Wardman Park hotel, in pursuance of my official duties I accompanied said deputy marshals to the premises mentioned and was present during the time that they executed their said warrant. They found Messrs. Charles C. Ruddy and G. H. Robbins in said premises at the time of said search. They obtained a folder containing a very large number of carbon copies of reports rendered by said Ruddy as manager and said Robbins as assistant manager and various operatives of the Burns Detective agency.

Eleven Jurors Watched.

"The said reports show that each of the jurors impaneled in the above cause was under surveillance for various lengths of time with the sole exception of Juror No. 8, Robert C. Flora. The reports show that the operatives began their activities on the day that the jury was sworn in the above cause; that one or more operatives was or were from time to time assigned to the shadowing of particular jurors; that they ascertained to whom said jurors talked, where they visited, the license numbers of all cars in which they rode or the occupants of which they interviewed or conversed with. In some cases the reports show that these operatives under instructions attempted to make contacts with people who had been seen in the company of jurors or with whom the jurors were in business contact.

"The reports of said Charles C. Ruddy show that he was frequently in

VAN LOON IS HAPPY, WIFE, TOO, IN MARRIAGE OF INDEPENDENCE

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—The New York American in a copyrighted story will say tomorrow that Hendrick Willem Van Loon, philosopher, historian, and essayist, has been happily married to Frances Goodrich, actress, for several years in an ultra-modern experiment.

Nether has assumed the slightest obligation toward the other.

Nether has any claim upon the time, society, or affections of the other.

Each maintains a separate establishment and each is at complete liberty to work out a career without hindrance or advice.

As there is no sharing of the home, there is no sharing of property or money.

Van Loon telephones his wife once a week or so, and if she has no other engagements they go out to dine. Van Loon said that he did not remember the exact date and place of the ceremony other than that it was performed by a rabbi in Miss Goodrich's home.

Van Loon has been married twice before. This is his wife's second marriage.

touch with the so-called 'client'; that he rendered synopses of the reports to said 'client' frequently; that he took instructions from said 'client' and that at the 'client's' request and direction he moved his operatives from various hotels to the Wardman Park hotel, so that they would be nearer to 'client's' home and out of the beaten path."

Inquire About Mortgage.

They show that in at least one instance these operatives have investigated the ownership of a home by a juror and the question whether said home was mortgaged and who held the mortgage, this obviously for some ulterior purpose not connected with the juror's duties. Further reports show that these operatives have investigated the financial status of a man who lived next door to one of the jurors and in numerous cases show reports concerning friends or business associates or neighbors of the jurors; all of this obviously for the purpose of establishing a point of contact with the juror in question.

"One of these reports further shows that recently a number of the operatives were released and sent home from the city of Washington for the reason that the 'client' did not desire certain of the members of the jury to be longer closely scrutinized."

Obtained Jurors' Histories.

"Said marshals, further, seized a document consisting of a rather detailed history and description of each of the twelve jurors sworn in this cause, which was found in the possession of the said Ruddy.

"Said marshals, further, seized a number of sheets containing a very large amount of detail with regard to automobile license numbers and ownerships of said license collected by the various operatives in scrutinizing the license numbers of cars of persons with whom the jurors came in contact. Affiant believes, and therefore avers, that these lists of license numbers were obtained in order to find out who were in contact in business and in a friendly way with the jurors.

In order to establish some means of contact through such persons with jurors.

Large Expense Accounts.

"Said Ruddy, which were also seized by said marshals, show conclusively that large sums of money were being paid to said operatives over and above their salaries as so-called expense money, said sums in some instances running as high as $24 for a single day.

"Said reports further show that said operatives followed jurors into restaurants and into other places, followed them to their places of business and watched them there, followed them to their homes, and that in one instance one of said operatives took a room in a lodging house opposite where one of the jurors lived. I have with exhibit to the court the papers and documents seized under said search warrant as aforesaid. All of which facts are just and true."

The original "tip" that attempts were being made to tamper with the jury came to the office of a local newspaper last Friday night from J. Ray Akers, a conductor of the Washington Railway and Electric company, who reported having heard Kidwell say that "they are going to hang the jury."

Don T. King, a reporter who received the message, persuaded Akers to arrange a meeting with Kidwell, and on Saturday afternoon the three met in an alleged "speak easy." King in an affidavit declared that Kidwell asserted he got on the Teapot Jury because he was "a good yes and no man," and because "these smart lawyers could not make him say what he did not want to say."

Juror O. K.'s Sinclair.

Kidwell, according to King's affidavit, continued that he was getting $24 a day as a juror and was paying little or no attention to the evidence, and asserted: "There is nothing wrong with this fellow Sinclair. He is a democratic fellow."

Akers remarked to Kidwell, King's affidavit charges, that he "supposed Kidwell would be riding around in a big car soon," and that Kidwell in response stated substantially as follows: "Well, I don't have one as long as this block I will be very much disappointed."

Later in the same conversation, according to King's affidavit, "Akers stated to Kidwell in the manner of an inquiry that he supposed Kidwell was figuring on getting something out of this."

Kidwell, the affidavit continues, responded, "Sinclair has plenty of money—money means nothing to him, and there is no limit to what he might do if he wanted."

Akers in his affidavit corroborated King's charges and added that Kidwell further remarked that he could not see "any advantage to him in bringing in a verdict of conviction while there might be some advantage in bringing in a verdict of acquittal in said case."

Sinclair and Fall and their array of defense counsel were obviously thunderstruck by the production of affidavits when Albee Pomeroy, special government counsel, announced to Justice Suddens that he had "a matter of greatest concern" to present.

exited whispering before they decided to follow the government attorneys into the justice's chambers.

When the court reconvened shortly after noon Justice Suddens declared it would be impossible for him to decide whether to order a mistrial before recessive morning.

Collapse of the trial at this time will come as a particularly severe blow to Mr. Pomeroy and Owen J. Roberts, the special attorneys appointed by President Coolidge to prosecute the oil fraud cases. Since July 1, owing to the failure of congress to pass the second deficiency appropriation bill, they have been compelled to pay all the expenses of the various phases of the oil scandal litigation out of their own pockets.

Evidence Almost Completed.

Exposure of the alleged attempts to "fix" the jury came when the government had practically completed its presentation of an unusually strong chain of circumstantial evidence to prove that Sinclair paid Fall $225,000 in Liberty bonds for the Teapot Dome lease and had traced by a score or more of witnesses the passage of the bonds from the treasury of a company in which Sinclair was interested into Fall's bank account.

Only one or two more witnesses, including Benes G. Dawes, a brother of Vice President Dawes, and Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, remained to be called, and it was expected yesterday that the government would rest its case today or tomorrow. Both Mr. Dawes, who is president of the Pure Oil company, and Col. Stewart were to tell their versions of the operations of the Continental Trading company, Ltd., which is the vital point in the government's case.

The government had charged that the Continental company was a mere concern managed by Sinclair and it sought to prove that the bonds traced by their registry numbers from the company's funds into Fall's possession were part of Sinclair's profits in a $10,000,000 oil deal.

Many Witnesses Called.

Dozens of witnesses were called from all parts of the country to tell the bonds and other witnesses told of the famous contract under which the Continental company bought 33,333 barrels of crude oil from the Humphreys-Martin company at $1.50 a barrel and sold it on the same day to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing company and the Prairie Oil and Gas company for $1.75 a barrel.

The mystery of the Continental deal is in the fact that the Continental company, soon after this one transaction, sold its contract with the Humphreys company, admittedly worth more than $4,000,000, for only $400,000, and went out of business. Mr. Dawes and employees of his company, which took over the Humphreys company, were to testify as to the actual value of the contract with the Continental company.

SCHWAB'S MANSION ON RIVERSIDE DRIVE OFFERED FOR SALE

New York, Nov. 1.—(Special.)—The Charles M. Schwab mansion, a show place on Riverside drive, is being offered for sale. What price the owner is asking could not be learned. It was reported and denied some time ago that negotiations were on for the sale of the mansion and the block it occupies at about $3,000,000 as an apartment site.

The house, with its marbles and decorations by well known American and European artists, is said to have cost about $2,500,000 when completed, exclusive of the cost of landscaping the gardens.

22 HURT IN GARY AS EXPRESS CAR JUMPS TRACKS

Twenty-two persons were injured, two seriously, when an express car of the Gary Railway company jumped a switch at 27th avenue and Broadway in Gary late yesterday afternoon and crashed into an iron lamp post.

Mrs. Rebecca Cole and George Bunda were the two most seriously hurt. Bunda is believed to have suffered a broken neck. Most of the injured were cut by flying glass and thrown violently against the seats in the car. About twenty-five escaped uninjured.

Passengers said that the car was traveling at a high rate of speed when it left the rails and careened across Gary's main thoroughfare.

TRIAL OF AS LAKE SLAYER

Defense Accuses Witness

Following today's session, the state jury meeting its case against 23 year old chauffeur began charged with May 7 of William H. Thorne in the Thorne Lake Forest.

Puschel was employed by Parwell Ferry of Lake Forest, the man's testimony was given in a way that made it even more damaging evidence. Puschel could not recall the date of the murder, but he did recall that the man's name was Thorne.

Thorne Donnell, Millionaire of Lake Forest, in the trial of the murder of William H. Thorne, was yesterday, and appeared later.

Mr. Donnell's appearance with his wife, who was committed and had been in the hospital for some time, was another of his investigations.

Joe Harrison, on the furnace in the house, was the chief witness. But he almost called State's Attorney J. J. Harrison, said he had killed the man, Harrison said he had killed the man, Harrison said he had killed the man.

What's the right name, according to the state's attorney, is right. The man's name is right. The man's name is right. The man's name is right.

Harrison then testified that he had been in charge of the furnace in the house. He had been in charge of the furnace in the house. He had been in charge of the furnace in the house.

Forest police station back with policemen which he had left. The inside, so the police found the maid. Her name was a girl. She died an hour after she was found.

Puschel was seen Donnell's home at the time of the murder. He was seen Donnell's home at the time of the murder. He was seen Donnell's home at the time of the murder.

TRIAL OF YOUTH AS LAKE FOREST SLAYER BEGINS

Defense Accuses Chief Witness for State.

Relying solely on circumstantial evidence, the state yesterday began presenting its case against Otto Puschel, 23 year old chauffeur, on trial in Washington charged with the murder on May 1 of William Miller, 24 years old, in the Thorne Donnelly home in Lake Forest.

Puschel was employed by Mrs. Abby Thorne Ferry of Lake Forest. Investigators of the murder have termed it as a "perfect crime" as they have ever encountered. Developments in the case yesterday before Judge Claire Edwards made it even more puzzling, when the state's chief witness was indicted for the murder of the dead by defense counsel. It was pointed out in cross-examination that the man who furnished the most damaging evidence against young Puschel could very well have committed the murder himself. But Col. A. V. Smith, state's attorney of Lake county, promised a surprise witness tomorrow in Coroner's Court William D. McNally, of Cook county. Dr. McNally is expected to testify to the presence of bloodstains on Puschel's coat the night of the murder.

Thorne Donnelly on Stand. Millionaires of Lake Forest will figure in the trial as involuntary witnesses. Thorne Donnelly was a witness yesterday, and Mrs. Ferry will appear later. Mr. Donnelly said he was in Europe with his wife when the murder was committed and that Miss Miller had been in charge of their home. Mayor Farwell Winston of Lake Forest was another witness who told of his investigations in the case.

Joe Harrison, colored, who tended the furnace in the Donnelly home, had been in charge of the state. He was almost collapsed when former state's Attorney James G. Welch, representing Puschel, made it clear in cross-examination that Harrison could have killed the maid. Harrison said he cleaned out the furnace in the Donnelly home between 6:30 and 6:45 o'clock the night of May 7. He then ascended to the first floor and immediately noticed the body of Miss Miller lying on the hallway leading to the second floor. Harrison then said he noticed Puschel, who was apparently about to leave the house.

Asks About Victim, He Says. "What was the matter with William?" he asked, according to his testimony. "She's all right," said Puschel, rising out and slamming the door, Harrison said. Harrison then testified that he ran out of the house through the back door and saw the body of the girl lying on the lawn. When he came back with policemen he found through which he had left was locked from the inside, so the police broke in and found the maid. Her clothing was torn and there was a great wound in her head. She died an hour later without regaining consciousness.

Puschel was seen in front of the Donnelly home at 1 o'clock, according to testimony. He was next seen getting off a North Shore electric train at 7:34 o'clock. He took a taxi driven by Frank Baldwin and went to the Ferry home. Police were waiting for him there and he was arrested. Puschel Maintains Innocence. Although always protesting his innocence, Puschel has never explained where he went after he left the Donnelly estate. He at first said he didn't know the Miller woman, but later admitted he was slightly acquainted with her.

A necklace and a chain belonging to the maid were found in his pocket.

Woman Poisons Mother to End Her Suffering

TONBRIDGE, Kent, Eng., Nov. 1.—Following the recent acquittal of a father who killed his young daughter to spare her further suffering from disease, England now has another case which is likely to involve the question of the "right to kill." Mrs. Margaret Bowman Delap, daughter of a prominent Kent hop grower, was charged today with unlawfully administering poison to her mother, Mrs. Margaret Waite, to end the latter's suffering.

AUTHOR DEFENDS SUIT AGAINST CHICAGO CENSOR

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Addressing the student body of Barnard college today, David S. Muzzey, professor of history in Columbia university, declared that his suit for $100,000 damages against former Representative John J. Gorman of Chicago was brought "because of misrepresentation that affects not me alone but which certainly affects and reflects upon the teachers of history throughout our country."

The suit was brought after Gorman, Mayor Thompson's "book censor," attacked the work as pro-British. "The man who brings these charges of pro-British influence and lack of patriotism are not attacking me only," said Prof. Muzzey. "They are attacking a large number of devoted teachers who are using my book."

"There are three reasons for this suit. The first is the libelous testimony of Mr. Gorman before the committee of Mayor Thompson a few weeks ago. Opinions which I have credited to other people in my textbook Mr. Gorman credits to me. The second reason is the fact that in his testimony Mr. Gorman represents my book as having been banned by schools throughout the country. As a matter of fact, the book has not been put out of any school that I know of. It has been used in New York continually since it was published, and it is now in more high schools in New York than any other textbook. It is used in California and Wisconsin and has not been banned there."

BANK ROBBERS ELUDE PURSUERS; OFFICER KILLED

Gang of 7 Gets $1,000 in Lafayette.

(Hines (Lafayette, Ind.) Photo.)

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Eluding all pursuers, the gang of bank robbers which held up the Tippecanoe Loan and Trust company this morning, slew Police Captain Charles W. Arman, 41, and escaped with $1,000 cash, is still at large. Chicago police were asked to keep a watch for them, as they left in that direction.

Seven bandits drove up to the bank just after the opening hour. Six went into the bank and the seventh remained with the automobile. The robbers herded the bank officers and clerks in the vault and picked up what money they could find on the counters.

Miss Margaret Cheney, executive of the bank, was ordered to open the safe, but managed to step on a buzzer which signaled the police. Arman ran into a fusillade of bullets as he entered the door. He returned the fire, but fell mortally wounded. He wounded one of the robbers, as blood was found at the rear of the bank where the robbers were firing.

The bandits ran out of the bank and sped north in their automobile. Many auto possess attempted to pursue the outlaws, but could not find their trail.

The robbery and shooting had been predicted in an anonymous letter received by another local bank last week. The police warned all banks to keep only necessary change on the counters. This accounted for the comparatively small sum obtained by the robbers.

HUGHES LAUGHS AT MAYOR'S WAR ON BRITISH BOOKS

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Charles Evans Hughes tonight poked a little gentle fun at Chicago while speaking at a Shakespeare memorial fund meeting. He made a laughing reference to Mayor Thompson's proceedings in Chicago to root so-called British propaganda out of the textbooks and library books, saying that before giving his support to the American Shakespeare foundation he had carefully studied Shakespeare's works and had not found a trace of British propaganda in them.

"Mad world, mad kings, mad composition," Mr. Hughes quoted from Shakespeare. "Mad composition—suppose that refers to Democratic politics."

It was announced today that John D. Rockefeller had given $500,000 to the fund for the Shakespearean memorial.

Today, hearing that the Russian actually intended to go through with his fantastic marriage, the blonde produced an equally fantastic bundle of letters and papers, which Alexander, leaving Paris hurriedly in answer to a summons from the elderly princess, left in her room in the Latin quarter. They tell the story of the young Russian's astonishing love affair with the old princess.

The little manikin, whose real identity is hidden behind the pseudonym Susette, tells a story that is too well documented for anybody to doubt. She says she met Alexander at a bar near the Pantheon six months ago. He was "fat broke" and clad in the rags of what once had been a sailor's outfit. Taken by his good looks, she invited him to share her attic.

A Glorious Career. Susette sorrowfully admits she was entranced by his tales of extravagant escapades from the time of his escape from a bolshevik prison. He spoke of a career in a cabaret in Sweden and a trip around the world before the war. Then two months as a guide to the disorderly sights of Marseilles, until a wealthy cousin at Bonn, one Vladimir Salskoff, palming him off as a tennis champion, introduced him at the court of Princess Victoria.

"Alexander used to laugh about his courtship with the old woman," Susette said today. "He told me how he used to walk arm in arm along the banks of the Rhine in the moonlight, but he said he got fed up on the old dowager."

But one day at the height of his affair with the little Parisian, M. Subkoff burst into their room with a letter from the princess.

"Wants to marry me," he cried. "She wants to marry me!" he cried. "I left her because I thought she was trifling with me, but now she says she is in earnest. She has had a rejuvenation operation, and although over 60 looks 30."

This letter Alexander left behind. Susette showed it to competent authorities today. It was written in English, and ends with the passionate plea, "Come to me with all speed, my lambkin, I cannot live without you!"

Susette is heartbroken and angry, too, but could not conceal her pride at being a rival of the ex-kaiser's sister.

PARIS MANIKIN LOVE RIVAL OF KAISER'S SISTER

BY HENRY WALES.

(Chicago Tribune Staff Service.)

(Copyright, 1927, By The Chicago Tribune.)

PARIS, Nov. 1.—When 27 year old Alexander Subkoff marries the 61 year old Princess Victoria of Schaumburg-Pippe tomorrow and becomes the former kaizer's brother-in-law, there will be a blonde manikin in Paris wishing him no good whatever.

For M. Subkoff was in Paris a few months ago, it was revealed today, and enjoyed not only the affection of this blonde young woman, who gains a meager living working for a Rue de la Paix couturier, but also a lot of board and keep at her expense.

Today, hearing that the Russian actually intended to go through with his fantastic marriage, the blonde produced an equally fantastic bundle of letters and papers, which Alexander, leaving Paris hurriedly in answer to a summons from the elderly princess, left in her room in the Latin quarter. They tell the story of the young Russian's astonishing love affair with the old princess.

"Alexander used to laugh about his courtship with the old woman," Susette said today. "He told me how he used to walk arm in arm along the banks of the Rhine in the moonlight, but he said he got fed up on the old dowager."

But one day at the height of his affair with the little Parisian, M. Subkoff burst into their room with a letter from the princess.

"Wants to marry me," he cried. "She wants to marry me!" he cried. "I left her because I thought she was trifling with me, but now she says she is in earnest. She has had a rejuvenation operation, and although over 60 looks 30."

This letter Alexander left behind. Susette showed it to competent authorities today. It was written in English, and ends with the passionate plea, "Come to me with all speed, my lambkin, I cannot live without you!"

Susette is heartbroken and angry, too, but could not conceal her pride at being a rival of the ex-kaiser's sister.

CORONER TO TEST RULING ON RIGHTS OF R.R. OVER AUTO

Decision Hampers Safety Measures, Aid Says.

A test case to establish the criminal liability of railroad employees whose negligence or carelessness causes a fatal train-auto crash was promised yesterday by Coroner Oscar Wolf, who was aroused by the United States Supreme court decision to the effect that a railroad is not liable for property damages in grade crossing mishaps.

"Unless the Supreme court's ruling is modified civil authorities will be powerless to compel railroads to inaugurate measures for the safety of the public," said the coroner's chief deputy, Paul Rothenberg. "In the next appropriate case in this office will hold the train crew to the grand jury and give the railroad a chance to try to construe this new court decision as applying to criminal prosecution."

Fears Effect on Crossing Plans.

President Anton J. Cermak of the county board said he feared the Supreme court opinion may influence pending litigation to elevate tracks in this county. The railroads, cleared of responsibility for automobiles smashed by their trains, may refuse to elevate any more tracks, he said.

Mayor Thompson yesterday proclaimed the seven days beginning next Monday as Drive Safely week. He said the police department has been instructed to concentrate its efforts on enforcing traffic regulations during this week. In addition, the mayor's proclamation calls on motorists and pedestrians to cooperate in lessening the accident toll.

POLICE EXTEND HUNT FOR MISSING GIRL, 16, TO FAR SOUTH SIDE

Hyde Park police last night extended the search for Elizabeth Raitling, 14 years old, the missing daughter of Frank Cermak, cousin of Anton Cermak, president of the Cook county board, to the far south side where the girl was last seen near 11th street and Sacramento avenue. Her mother was reported to be prostrated from grief in their home at 4504 Drexel boulevard.

For several months the girl has been ill in health and Monday afternoon Caroline DeLibby, daughter of a neighbor, accompanied her to a Halloween party at the Richards school near 26th and Lins streets. When the party was over Caroline found that her friend had disappeared wearing her party costume. Yesterday police learned that she had been seen going south in Sacramento avenue.

Elizabeth is a daughter of Mrs. Cermak by her first marriage. Mr. Cermak is a salesman for the Carvation Milk company and was out of town when notified that his wife had collapsed. Relatives fear that the girl may have become the victim of a moron.

he was struck by an automobile last Saturday.

Mrs. Frances Jackowski, 75, of 4121 North St. Louis avenue, was struck and killed by an automobile at Irving Park boulevard and St. Louis avenue as she was returning home from All Saints' day services at a neighborhood church. Police held the driver, Louis Nelson, 2354 North 74th avenue, Cicero.

An unidentified man, about 32 years old, was struck and fatally injured by a taxicab as he walked into its path from behind a street car at Madison and Laflin streets. The chauffeur, Albert Mayer, 3457 West Monroe street, carried the dying man to Jefferson Park hospital.

Carol Albertson, 6, of 6623 South Halsted street, suffered a fractured skull when she ran in front of a car driven by Herman Nolan, 16, of 6623 South Halsted street, at 44th and Halsted streets. Nolan took the girl to Englewood hospital. He was held at the juvenile home.

BERTSCHE GETS FOUR YEAR MAIL ROBBERY TERM

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Joseph Bertsche of Chicago pleaded guilty today to participation in the $150,000 Wingate alley mail robbery here in 1921. He was sentenced to four years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta and fined $5,000.

Bertsche, recently extradited from Chicago after more than three years of court action, came to Cincinnati planning to contest the government's charges. In conference with United States attorneys this morning, he decided to plead guilty and accept sentence.

Assembled here from several cities were more than 50 witnesses to testify against Bertsche, among them being the Rev. Herbert Wilson, who is serving a life sentence in the San Quentin penitentiary for murder. Wilson confessed to the California authorities that he was a member of the mail robbery band and implicated Bertsche.

Get Rid of Dandruff In Three Days!

Dandruff is embarrassing. You simply cannot look neat and well groomed when your shoulders are flecked with dandruff deposit. And don't forget that neglected dandruff is the primary cause of baldness! Why put up with this dandruff annoyance? It's wholly unnecessary! By a simple and easy process you can banish every sign of dandruff in three days. This is the way to do it—get a bottle of MONAHATO, a natural hair tonic made from imported herbs. Apply it every day for three successive days. Then part your hair and look in the mirror. Every trace of dandruff will have disappeared. Your scalp will be white and clean. Your hair will be soft and full of natural luster. After that, use MONAHATO once a week or so—and you'll never have dandruff again!

Monahato
Is Guaranteed to Destroy Dandruff

This wonderful product also stops excessive fall of hair and corrects itching scalp. It contains no harsh chemicals—will not dry up the hair and make it brittle. It feeds both hair and scalp into new life and vigor.

FERGUS WINS 1ST
STEP IN BATTLE
TO REMAP STATEDecision, if Upheld, Will Make Assembly Act.

BY PARKE BROWN.

John P. Fergus, octogenarian fighter for equality in state representation for Cook county, won the first point yesterday in his latest battle for senatorial reapportionment.

Upon Mr. Fergus' petition, Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg declared invalid the most recent of the state reapportionment acts, those of 1901 and 1911, on grounds of unconstitutionality. An immediate appeal to the Illinois supreme court is expected, and if the ruling is upheld it is predicted there will be a special session of the legislature to enact a new, redistricting law.

Going Back to 1890 Census.
That is the goal sought by Mr. Fergus and his supporters. Literally, Judge Feinberg's decision was a ruling that the next legislature must be based on the representation basis of the census of 1890—when Chicago had a population of only 593,285 and had only ten instead of its present nineteen senatorial districts—but nobody looks for that to happen.

This is due to the fact that County Clerk Sweetser, who, although in sympathy with Chicago's demand for its constitutional rights, was the respondent in the Fergus mandamus suit before Judge Feinberg, and Sweetser will take an immediate appeal to the Supreme court with a plea that it render a decision in the December term in order that the legislature may meet in time to pass a new law if the old ones are pronounced dead.

The likelihood of such an emergency calling together of the assembly was declared to be increased by another suit on hearing during the session which would throw a second and even larger monkey wrench into the election machinery. This was the Judge Kreger suit before Judge Harry N. Fisher to invalidate the general reapportionment law and the legislative primary law passed by the last legislature.

Attorney Presents Arguments.
In that case Attorney Henry A. Berger, counsel for Kreger, argued that the new reapportioning laws are full of holes. Attorneys for the county and the state are to take up the other side of the argument this morning.

Judge Feinberg's opinion supporting the Fergus mandamus petition demonstrated the "incurable failure" of the legislature to do its "plain constitutional duty" for the last twenty-six years.

The precise question of the discrimination against Cook county, which since the census of 1920 has been entitled to five more districts than it now has—on grounds of its population and representation—was not argued before the court. Instead the Fergus ratio, was hooked up with Brown county.

Apportionment Is Mandatory.

Judge Feinberg declared that the constitutional provision concerning apportionment "is a mandatory one, and leaves no discretion in the legislature."

"The right of the people to equality of representation," he continued, "was from the time of the birth of our nation to the present day earnestly proclaimed and zealously guarded."

"In the Declaration of Independence we find the following indictment against the king of Great Britain: 'He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts unless those people would relinquish the rights of representation in the legislature—a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only.'"

"We find in the ordinance of 1787 for the government of the Northwest territory the following provisions: 'The inhabitants of said territory shall always be entitled to the benefits of proportionate representation of the people in the legislature.'"

"That same principle of equality of representation was again preserved to the people of Illinois by the constitutions of 1818, 1848 and 1870."

In speaking of the treatment given Kane and Adams counties by the apportionment acts under attack, he said: "Why this distinction? Why this discrimination and what constitutional justification had the legislature for making such distinction and such discrimination?"

"Joining Kane county with Kendall county as was done by the act of 1901 was the denial to the people of Kane county of their constitutional right of equality of representation."

"To have favored Peoria, La Salle and St. Clair counties, which were no more entitled to separate senatorial districts than Kane county, clearly demonstrates that the legislature arbitrarily favored these latter counties without any regard to equality of representation, integrity of county lines or county autonomy so sacredly guarded and preserved by our constitution."

Decision on Demurrer.

Judge Feinberg's decision came upon a general demurrer filed by County Clerk Sweetser in answer to the Fergus plea that the clerk be required to receive nominating petitions for the legislature upon the basis of the 1892 apportionment act. The court overruled the demurrer and it is upon this order that an appeal is to be taken.

George E. Gorman, first assistant, represented State's Attorney Crowe in the arguments and he is expected to perfect the appeal.

There was an unusual array of counsel in Judge Fisher's court when the arguments on the Kreger petition to enjoin county officials from observing the new primary law. State's Attorney

Crowe was represented by W. B. Walrath. Attorney General Carlstrom was represented by Montgomery S. Winning, his first assistant, and S. S. DuHamel, the assistant who carried the test to the old law to the Supreme court. Attorney Vernon W. Schroder, who, at the request of Gov. Small, drafted the law under attack, was present as a representative of the legislative reference bureau and in the role of a friend of the court.

Present Argument Today.
It is probable that each of these will present arguments today and that Attorney Cornelius J. Harrington, who is aiding Attorney Berger, also may address the court.

Attorney Berger went at length into the allegations of his petition concerning the unconstitutionality of the present general primary statute, particularly his contention that it has the same fault as the one upon which its predecessor was invalidated.

RICHBERG HIRED AGAIN TO CARRY ON GAS RATE SUIT

Despite his recent clash with the city administration, Attorney Donald Richberg was reemployed yesterday by the council's gas, oil and electricity committee to prepare a petition to the supreme court for a rehearing of the city's $10,000,000 gas rebate case.

He immediately accepted the assignment and will start work today on the petition which must be filed within 15 days. According to Ald. Jacob Arvey, chairman of the committee, he will receive $125 a day for his services.

Mr. Richberg resigned from his post as attorney for the committee shortly after the mayoralty election last spring. Following the supreme court ruling in the gas case last week, Mayor Thompson issued a statement blaming "Richberg and other reformers" for the defeat. The attorney, in reply, attacked the mayor and Corporation Counsel Etzelson for their failure to cooperate in the case. Mr. Etzelson, he charged, is controlled by Samuel Insull, head of the Peoples Gas, Light and Coke company, defendant in the proceedings.

It was pointed out at the committee hearing, that because of his knowledge of the suit and the need for immediate action, Richberg would be the logical attorney to draft the rehearing petition and a majority voted to ask for his services over the protest of Ald. B. A. Cronson, one of the mayor's spokesmen. Ald. Cronson passed his vote.

Asked for statement last night, Mr. Etzelson said: "What the committee does is its own business. I have had nothing to do with this suit and intend to do nothing with it."

Unofficial reports had it that administration officials are confident that the rehearing petition will be rejected and are anxious to let the final defeat fall upon Mr. Richberg's shoulders. Should it be allowed, however, and the decision reversed, the gas company will be compelled to refund to its consumers $10,000,000, representing an increase in rates paid into effect in 1921.

Wife, 68, Wins Separation from Her Husband of 70

Mrs. Catherine Ann Donald, 68 years old, 6444 Drexel avenue, was awarded a decree of separate maintenance from William Hudson Donald, 70 years old, 6539 University avenue, yesterday by Judge Denis J. Murphy.

Mrs. Donald accused her husband of philandering. Alimony was fixed at $15 a week.

24 MINERS CITED FOR CONTEMPT OF U. S. COURT

Missouri Governor Acts to Halt Disorder.

Washington, Mo., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Twenty-four members of the United Mine Workers of America and their sympathizers to prevent independent miners from working at four mines of the Consolidated Sales company have brought the state and the U. S. district court into the controversy late today.

Adm. Gen. A. V. Adams of the Missouri National Guard has been ordered here by Gov. Sam A. Baker to investigate disorders. U. S. District Judge Merrill E. Otis at St. Joseph, Mo., has cited 24 miners to appear in court at Kansas City Saturday to answer contempt proceedings in connection with alleged violations of an injunction prohibiting interference with the independent miners.

Seeks More Citations.

The citations were issued on a petition of the Consolidated Sales company. E. M. Tipton, counsel of the company, said citations would be sought for other miners. Two hundred and fifty men today guarded the highway leading to the Consolidated mines and turned back independent miners who sought to work. Several clashes occurred. Independent miners have been working for a lower wage scale than demanded by the United Mine workers.

Duty Martial Law Threat.

Walsenburg, Colo., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A strike of "To hell with martial law," 400 striking I. W. W. miners at a unanimous vote tonight voted unanimously to resume picketing at coal mines tomorrow. Their vote followed an imprisonment of Kristen Svanum, strike leader who was released from jail today. The strikers "ignore the promises of capitalist Gov. Adams." The chairman of the meeting who spoke against a resumption of picketing was hooted down as persons on the floor shouted, "kill the guy who don't want to picket!"

Burn $20,000 Coal Tipples.

Moundsville, W. Va., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The tipple of the Fort Pitt mine of the Central Mining company across the Ohio river in Ohio was destroyed by fire shortly before dawn today with a loss of $20,000. Authorities were told nine men were seen running from the tipple just before the fire was discovered.

Deputy Fire Marshals Freed in Assault Case

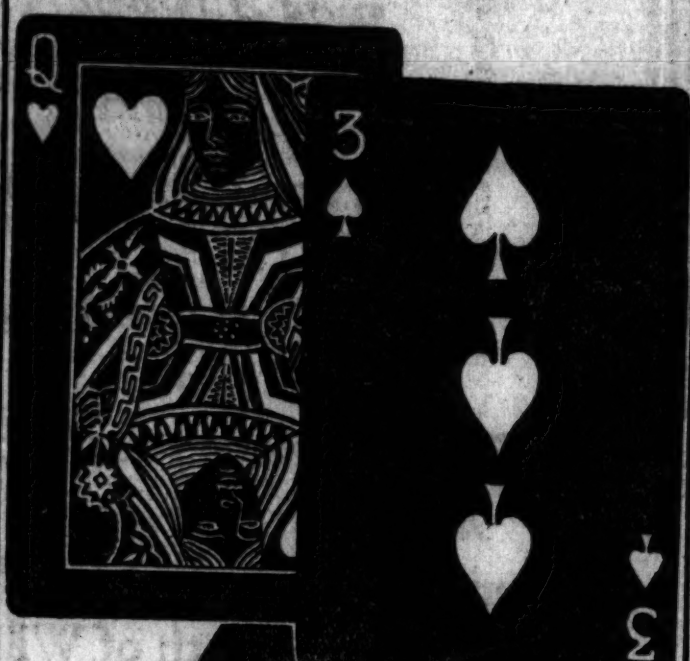

William F. Hayes and Edward J. Dodd, employees of the state fire marshal's office, were freed in the South Clark street court yesterday when they were arraigned on charges of assaulting Samuel Tockman, a commission merchant at 224 West Randolph street. Tockman asserted that the pair beat him after demanding that he pay them $100 for assisting him to collect insurance for a fire loss. Hayes and Dodd testified, however, that Tockman attacked them with a hammer when they asked to be shown his books.

PLEA FOR 3,000 POLICE STARTS COUNCIL FIGHT

Aided Expense Opposed in Finance Committee.

Three guns in what appears likely to be a battle over city budget appropriations for 3,000 new policemen and 1,000 new firemen in 1928 were fired yesterday at a session of the city council's committee on finance.

Heads of both departments, Chief of Police Michael Hughes and Fire Commissioner A. W. Goodrich, declaring that their forces are too small to protect the city with its rapid growth, have asked for the new men, who would increase the personnel by about one-half of the present size of each force. Their salaries would add between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 to the city pay roll.

Opposed by Guernsey. At least three aldermen indicated that they would fight the appropriations. Ald. Guy Guernsey (8th) said he was against adding a single new policeman, regardless of the money available. Mayor Thompson's leaders defended the proposed expenditures. The committee's debate started when Ald. Leonard J. Grossman (5th) addressed the group in behalf of his request sustaining Chief Hughes' request.

"Everybody knows that the police force is woefully undermanned," he declared. "Chicago's crime situation is a by-word. The real crime is our failure to employ enough policemen to protect ourselves. I want to see Chief Hughes get every man he asks for, no matter what it costs."

"How many policemen are working now?" Ald. Jacob Arvey (24th) interjected.

"About 4,345 patrolmen," Grossman replied.

"I said how many are working?" Arvey repeated. "The trouble is that half of them are assigned to lodge meetings, to city hall executives, and other special details. If the chief would put them to work, as the law provides, he wouldn't need so many more."

Ald. Max Adamowski (36th) said he felt that other city improvements should not be thrown overboard to finance the police department.

"What I want to know is this," said Ald. Guernsey. "If three coppers walk by a bawdy house or speakeasy now, afraid to pinch it for fear of going to the sticks, why should we pay $5,000, 000 to have seven walk by?"

"How many more men do you think Hughes needs?" Ald. Guernsey was asked.

"Not a one—not a single one," he retorted.

Chairman Calls a Halt. Before the Thompson men could reply, Chairman John S. Clark (30th) pointed out that further debate would be futile until the budget came up for action in the latter part of December and insisted that the committee return to immediate business. Ald. Grossman then announced that he would be on hand at every meeting until the appropriations are approved.

Fire Commissioner Goodrich last night sent to the city controller a statement of his needs. He asked for a total appropriation of $10,579,122, an increase of $3,292,122 over 1927. Approximately $2,000,000 of the increase would go for new men ranked as follows: Battalion chiefs, 4; captains, 15; lieutenants, 15; firemen, 340; engineers, 10; operators, 6. Of the 340 new firemen 725 would be added to existing companies and the remainder formed into 15 new companies at that many new stations.

Mr. Goodrich also asked for $40,000 for a fire boat in Belmont harbor and $10,000 for a smaller craft in the Jackson park lagoon. Neither the river fireboats nor land trucks can be used to fight fires on yachts in these locations, he explained.

other city departments as a basis, the city controller is now preparing a complete tentative budget which goes to the finance committee about Dec. 1. The total corporate fund budget for 1927 was slightly more than $54,000,000. It is estimated that the increases requested for 1928 will approximate between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000.

Greatest of his Great Historical Novels "THE SUN HAWK"

"THE SUN HAWK" blazes a trail of love, intrigue, and adventure. A stirring romance of Frontenac's cavaliers, the violent, stubborn, lovable French adventurer. The hero, an unknown English lad, handsome, fearless. From Turkish flames and slaughter he rescues a lovely daughter of the French court—only to see her...? This fascinating tale unfolds against the background of the court of Louis XIV and the opening of the New World.

Robert W. Chambers' historical novels are considered his finest work. The SUN HAWK is the greatest of them all. Don't miss the opening installment in the November Pictorial.

Is Marriage Doomed? Is Lasting Love Possible?

Dr. Will Durant, outstanding philosopher and popular lecturer whose "Story of Philosophy" is the best seller of non-fiction books, writes for the November Pictorial. Read the "BREAKDOWN OF MARRIAGE." It is a fine, courageous analysis of the institution of marriage, its history, its meaning, the repeated failure of many modern marriages. He shows us why it seems to be on the verge of breaking down—why it must not be allowed to break down. What he has to say is new and startlingly candid.

CHICAGO PAYS FINAL TRIBUTE TO MITCHELLS

City Leaders Fill Church in Impressive Rites.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Side by side, under robes of dark velvet covered with lilies of the valley and brilliant roses, the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell were wheeled into St. James Episcopal church yesterday afternoon for the last tributes that Chicago could pay to the banker and his wife, who were killed in an automobile accident near Libertyville last Saturday.

The honorary pallbearers, 72 in number, including the business and financial leaders of the city, stood on either side of the aisle, facing the center, as the procession, preceded by the lifted cross and led by Bishop Herman Page of Michigan and the Rev. Duncan H. Browne, rector of St. James, wended its slow way to the altar. Among the pallbearers were those who had been ushers at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell 37 years ago. This double journey in death struck awe and sorrow to many hearts.

Flowers Overflow Church.
The dim Gothic interior of the old church was lightened by thousands of flowers. Chancel, altar, galleries and part of the nave were overflowing with blooms, in which roses and chrysanthemums predominated. To the right and left of the altar were blankets of double sprays of red roses. Wreaths of orchids and lilies of the valley were banded about the choir loft, and several large floral crosses appeared above the wreaths on the chancel. Four automobile loads of flowers had to be turned away from the church.

The 1,400 seats were filled half an hour before the services began at 2:30 o'clock. Thousands stood in the streets and the square around the church was blocked for an hour as the people struggled for a viewpoint.

Bishop Conducts Service.
The service was the Episcopal ritual, with its dignity and note of triumph, unchanged here in the democracy of death. There was no eulogy beyond the silent tribute of the bowed heads in that church. The reading was by the gray haired Bishop Page, who had baptized three of the Mitchell children and who put into his voice and manner something of the special meaning of the words he was reading for those children, now grown, who sat in black on the mourners' seat sobbing. Dr.

Browne read part of the service, and the music was specially selected. As the caskets were rolled down the aisle the funeral march of Chopin was played softly on the organ. After the first reading, when the caskets had come to rest under the crosses built of white blooms at the altar, the robed choir sang "O Paradise, O Paradise." The anthem was "Soul of the Righteous," the words taken from the third chapter of the Book of Wisdom. The recessional was "For All the Saints Who from Their Labors Rest."

The entire service occupied only half an hour. At its conclusion while the recessional was being sung the caskets, again side by side, were taken down the aisle and the pall bearers filed out after them. Members of the family, including four children, John J. Mitchell Jr., William H. and Clarence, and Mrs. Robert E. Hunter, went out a side entrance to the waiting automobiles. The funeral procession of more than one hundred cars was preceded by four motorcycle policemen on the way to Graceland cemetery, where the bodies were placed in the family mausoleum and the service was private. As soon as the church was emptied of those who had attended the service another crowd fully as great tried to get in to see the final offerings, which had been brought to the church in fifteen trucks. The blossoms had been arranged by Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and Mrs. Fred Haskell. Mrs. Louise P. Ordway Jr. and Mrs. P. A. Valentine took the cards bearing the names of the donors as the flowers were brought into the church. Arrangements for the seating were in charge of Charles Schweppe and Clive Runnels. The police finally had to close the doors to stop the crush into the church.

Members of the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Board of Trade, the Union League club, and the Art Institute attended the service. The attendance was limited to delegates, members in view of the seating capacity of the church. Ten thousand would have attended this funeral if there had been an opportunity. These delegations and the list of pall bearers constituted the most representative group of distinguished citizens possible to draw together. It was the passing of the man Mitchell rather than the death of a multimillionaire banker that was impressed on the minds of those present. Probably all in that church had come into contact with Mr. Mitchell on some occasion and had felt the touch of his kindly, wise spirit. Even those who sat with him on boards of directors of great institutions remembered the personal phases of their relationship rather than the power that he wielded. One of the plans of Mr. Mitchell which death ended for him was the building of a hospital to be dedicated to the service of the poor children of Chicago. President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university told of this yesterday.

"Mr. Mitchell had planned to build the hospital on McKinlock campus," he said. "He was enthusiastic about it and wanted to build a great institution. He was anxious to begin plans and had asked me to get hospital literature on this subject."

ROBBERS WHISK $75,000 IN GEMS FROM SALESMAN

Three armed men yesterday held up and robbed J. S. Alexander, a diamond salesman for a New York jewelry concern, in the store of Nathan Kahn, jeweler, 2308 West Division Street, and escaped with diamonds valued at $75,000. The men entered the place wearing masks and with revolvers drawn. An automobile parked in front of Kahn's store whisked them away just a minute and a half after they had entered.

Alexander had the diamonds displayed on a showcase. He and Kahn were picking over the stones when the trio entered. Kahn ducked behind the counter, escaped into his apartment above the store, and called the police, but the robbers had disappeared.

MAFALDA DEAD TOTAL 314; CREW SUFFERS LEAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 1.—The Italian Navigazione Generale announced today that its final list of lost in the sinking of its steamer Principessa Mafalda comprised 27 first class passengers, 27 second class passengers, 204 third class passengers, 9 officers, and 37 members of the crew—a total of 314. The rescued were 25 first class passengers, 55 second class passengers, 623 third class passengers, eleven officers and 221 members of the crew. Of the first class passengers, 56 percent perished; of the officers, 45 percent were lost. The crew lost only 18 percent of its members.

GEN. CROWDER, HERE, URGES WAR PREPAREDNESS

Welcomed as He Comes to Practice Law.

Immediate national legislation which would make possible quick mobilization of the man power and industry of the country in the event of another war was advocated last night by Maj. Gen. Crowder (retired) former advocate and provost marshal of the United States army.

Crowder spoke at a dinner given in his honor by Vice President Dawes and Rufus C. Dawes at the Chicago hotel upon his coming to Chicago to practice the law.

Gen. Crowder was the author and sponsor of the selective draft law of 1917 and advocates a permanent law after this order on the statute books so that there would be no delay in any future emergency. He spoke of the future of this nation in view of the lessons of the past. He would have state and municipal boards organized and mobilized once a year as the first step in the new defense.

History as Example. In his speech Gen. Crowder reviewed the history of the other wars in which our country has been engaged and found them as illustrations in condemnation of the volunteer system as wasteful and inefficient.

In course of the selective service act of the world war as the outcome of the "progressive wisdom" of President Wilson. He said he was called to the office of the secretary of war in the afternoon of the day after Germany and America broke off relations. The President at 2 p.m. that day had visited the secretary of war and determined on a selective draft system. Secretary Baker carried Mr. Wilson's orders to Gen. Crowder in the next half hour and instructed him to draw up an act for selective service and have it ready for the President at 10 the next morning.

This was done; the war college advocated without change and congress enacted it with a few minor modifications in the penalty clauses.

While the Vice President acted as master of ceremonies at the banquet, Rufus C. Dawes introduced Gen. Crowder and told of his fifty years' service in the army. The general was graduated from West Point in 1881. He acted as military instructor at the University of Missouri and thence studied law. He was in the campaign against the Sioux in South Dakota and was at the battle of Little Bighorn.

was sent to the Philippines with the army of occupation and drew up the laws under which the islands were governed for years. His last job has been that of ambassador to Cuba.

Nearly 150 bankers, business men and lawyers attended the banquet. Brief addresses welcoming Gen. Crowder into Chicago were made by ex-Senator James Hamilton Lewis and by Gen. Jacob M. Dickinson, secretary of war in the Taft administration.

Two Women Pools Officials Must Appear in Bond Case

Mrs. Leona Colne and Mrs. Tina Wortman, election officials of the Twentieth ward, must appear before the Appellate court if it is to consider an application for a supersedeas bond. It was announced yesterday by the judges of that court. Justices James Holdom, Francis Wilson, and Thomas Taylor, stopped the hearing and continued it until this morning, when they discovered that the defendants, who are under sentence of one year each, have not been apprehended by the sheriff. The attorneys promised to bring the women in court this morning.

COUNCILMEN VETO SECOND PLEA FOR LYING-IN TAG DAY

Mrs. Edward F. Swift's
Appeal to Mayor Vain.

With an unanimous chorus of "aye," members of the city council yesterday voted to veto the second plea for a tag day in honor of the late Mrs. Edward F. Swift.

The letter from Mrs. Swift, who is chairman of a tag committee in the city, for funds for the hospital by a group of society women, was the second request for the tag day to be rejected. The committee turned down a similar plea by Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank two weeks ago, on the ground that only three specified groups are allowed tag days each year under a city ordinance.

"I know that it is against the policy of the council to allow more than three tag days a year," Mrs. Swift wrote. "But I understand this ruling has already been infringed upon and what I hope is that, being the case, we also may have a chance."

Mr. George B. Brennan has said that he would use his influence with the Democratic aldermen to secure their votes for us, but of course there are not enough of them to swing the council even if he is entirely successful. I shall be very grateful to you for anything you may do for us and will be glad to hear from you as to the possibilities." Mrs. Swift added that her group expected to sell $100,000 worth of tags.

Mayor Thompson, in reply, explained that tag day matters are handled by the finance committee and referred the letter to that group. Mrs. Swift's letter was dated Oct. 18, but did not come up for action until yesterday.

Before last summer the tag day ordinance was not enforced, hundreds of organizations obtaining permits with out difficulty. A limit of three a year was fixed by the committee.

WIFE TELLS HOW SHE PARDONED F. CHALIAPIN

MOSCOW, Nov. 1.—(U. P.)—Speaking of the divorce suit which may sever her from Feodor Chaliapin, famous grand opera star, Mme. Tornaghi, the ballerina, his wife, said today it was "the second great affliction of my life." "My first affliction was when one of my children died," she said.

Mme. Tornaghi recounted her unusual experiences with the opera star, and his alleged affair with another woman. "Although we have been married for thirty years, I always have realized that Chaliapin is an extraordinary person, and was willing to pardon his numerous escapades for the sake of the integrity of our family," she explained. "Moreover I concealed for fourteen years his liaison with Mme. Petzhold."

Our children learned the truth only in the hard days of the revolution. My devotion to my husband always has been great. I never opposed his adopting three children which he had with Mme. Petzhold.

The ballerina is an attractive elderly woman, with lively black eyes. She lives in a handsomely furnished house which formerly belonged to her husband.

Keeping that Schoolgirl Complexion

By VILMA BANKY

Beware of any but a true
complexion soap—
used this way

KEEPING the skin clean, the pores open, is only half the secret of a good complexion. The most important advice is to use ONLY a true complexion soap ever on the face.

A soap may be excellent for a thousand purposes, yet be too harsh for the skin. Good complexions are often thus imperiled.

Hence, largely on expert advice, thousands use Palmolive Soap. A soap made solely for ONE purpose—to safeguard good complexions. A beauty soap you know is safe to use.

Wash your face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy lather of olive and palm oils into the skin.

Rinse off with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be naturally dry, apply a little good cold cream. Do this regularly and particularly in the evening.

That rule is credited with more beautiful skins than any other known. Use powder, rouge, make-up all you wish. But never let them remain over night. Follow one week, then note the difference in your skin.

Get Palmolive today. But be sure it is GENUINE Palmolive. Costs but 10c a cake. Soaps represented as of palm and olive oils without the Palmolive name are usually crude imitations. So take care. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A. (Advertisement)

The Martyrdom OF "Safety First"

An Editorial Inviting Your Suggestions

Since the hour of the tragic death of one of America's foremost citizens, together with his wife, the offices of Stutz dealers throughout the United States have been alive with discussion on the subject of motor car safety. Many letters and wires and some cables continue to come from Stutz owners all over the world expressing heartfelt sympathy for the victims and deepest gratitude for their own protection.

With the hands of the auto-death-clock swiftly moving toward another appalling record this year such widespread comment is not surprising. But that it should manifest itself within a group of Stutz owners—a single outstanding product—is indeed a startling phenomenon of its kind and an interesting commentary on America's new martyrdom.

This announcement is not to be taken as an insinuation that other makes of cars are unsafe, because we and most manufacturers realize that accidents of all kinds are the work of Fate; also that Fate has made no exclusive covenant with Stutz. A really fine product does not require such pharisaical or extravagant claims.

But we do desire to call the motoring public's attention more directly if not forcefully to the question of safety, and to invite them to experience a safety which we have made the ultimate of motor car achievement rather than the expedient by subordinating it to delusive popular appeal. We invite them to investigate how Stutz has taken every precaution to circumvent or overcome those extraneous forces which inevitably shape our destinies, do with them what we will.

Safety exists in the abstract—in the mind. It must, therefore, be a feeling such as a man would have in using a sharp razor, driving a swift golf ball, boarding a speedy train, protecting his family with insurance, or otherwise guarding his valuables. And it is this feeling, this peace of mind, to which the many Stutz owners voluntarily and gratefully testify, unquestionably superinduced by ingenious human safeguards such as the famous Stutz Safety Chassis with its low center of gravity, preventing overturns even when wheels on one side are three feet off of the ground; Stutz Safety Protex Glass in every window that cannot splinter; Safety Stutz steel running boards that are complete isolation from crashes; Safety Stutz Hydrostatic all-weather braking efficiency, and withal Safety Stutz dependable mechanism than which no loftier standard has ever been exceeded by any motor car manufacturer.

When one attempts to parallel last Saturday's tragedy, or any other accident anywhere, for that matter, with the recent demonstrations of Stutz stock cars, all champions of Pike's Peak hill climb, with its precipitous heights, perilous hairpin turns, and hazardous grades—all at top speed on wet roads, without fatalities, it is to us a source of amazing regret that the public does not make safety a more important consideration than price or frills before selecting its motor cars. In striving and reaching a goal of safety our engineers have found and embraced a new beauty that is just as fearless of competition as Stutz owners are of accidents. We, too, join our many friends in gratitude.

RAISE IN REALTY TAX VALUATION IS $769,320,396

Assessors' Job Finished; Reviewers at Work.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The board of assessors has boosted real estate values for taxing purposes an average of 37.7 per cent, or an aggregate of $769,320,396. This is the largest percentage of increase in 30 years.

The increase in 1925—the last quadrennial year—was more than $432,000,000, about 18 per cent. This was later trimmed by $191,000,000 by the board of review so that the final figure for 1925 was only $241,589,754 above the total for 1923, or 10.3 per cent.

If it can be assumed that the board of review this year will make the identical cut it did four years ago, $121,000,000, this year's increase will be more than $578,000,000, which is 140 per cent more than four years ago. The reviewers are now trimming real estate valuations, and have about $9,000,000 to pass upon.

Final Figures Announced.

The assessors' figures for the townships of South Chicago, which embraces all the territory south and east of the river to 38th street and for Jefferson out on the northwest side, were made public yesterday by John E. Sonroy, chairman of the board. A comparison of the real estate values in the eight full townships within Chicago for this year and last follows:

Township	1926	1927
South	$706,000,000	$729,112,504
Jefferson	$44,543,846	$32,385,704
West	$80,106,573	$42,581,784
Hyde Park	$80,888,000	$49,001,544
Lake View	$34,685,120	$42,651,544
Lake	$44,461,398	$30,746,172
North	$181,299,000	$276,000,000
Rogers Park	$9,185,130	$9,908,172

Totals—$772,866,850 $832,412,496

There are parts of half a dozen other townships within Chicago, which will add about $40,000,000 to the total for this year. Among them are the towns of Maine, Niles, Norwood Park, Calumet, Stickney, and Worth. So when the figures are complete, the total will be around $852,000,000 for Chicago real estate.

Realty Burden Increases.

This figure is $1,232,900,000 above the total value of real estate in Chicago for taxing purposes in 1919, the quadrennial year before the last. In those eight years the tax burden on Chicago real estate, due solely to increased valuations, has been advanced 52 per cent, while personal property valuation has shown an actual loss on the tax books.

The increase per township this year has ranged from 17.7 per cent to 49.5 per cent. The following table shows

FIRE FIGHTERS TO BAPTIZE ENGINE IN FLAME TODAY

One of the largest crowds of fire fans ever seen in Chicago is expected to assemble at 11 a. m. today to watch the fire department start and put out a conflagration in an old, unoccupied building at Wacker drive and Franklin street.

The free bonfire was arranged at the behest of Mayor Thompson to demonstrate the efficiency of the city's newest fire engine, and to pump streams of water with pressure enough to tear the structure's brick walls to bits. The firehouse, Illinois, two trucks and an aerial ladder manned by fifty firemen also will participate in the demonstration.

"We're going to pile the old shack full of rubbish, soak it up with gasoline, and put on a real show," Deputy Fire Chief Michael J. Corrigan announced yesterday.

Special guests at the fire will be the mayor, Commissioner Goodrich, members of the city council, and other officials.

The increase in each town, both in dollars and in percentage:

"Average for eight townships.

The state tax commission will begin a hearing of the charges of inequitable valuations of Chicago real estate today in the Palmer house. Miss Margaret Haley of the Chicago Teachers' federation is the principal complaining witness. She will urge the tax commission to re-order a revaluation of all real estate for taxing purposes in Chicago.

RUM CONSPIRACY INDICTMENTS OF 74 ARE DISMISSED

An indictment naming Police Capt. John F. Fitzgerald and Thomas J. Coughlin, former captain of the South Chicago police station, and 72 others, charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe.

United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, acting on authority from Washington, made the recommendation that the charges be dropped. Insufficient evidence was given as the cause.

The indictment was obtained by former First Assistant United States District Attorney Hope Thompson, who was aided by the Rev. Elmer L. Williams.

PADLOCKS CLOSED ON MOULIN ROUGE AND FRIARS INN

Government padlocks were applied yesterday to the already darkened Moulin Rouge at 416 South Wabash avenue, and the Friars' inn at 343 South Wabash avenue. The action followed announcement that the United States Supreme court had denied the writ of certiorari, sought to set aside the injunction issued by Federal Judge Cliffe closing the cabarets.

Details of applying observation evidence to the padlocking of Chicago night life centers is expected to be discussed today by Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Dorian when he confers with Prohibition Administrator E. C. Yellowley.

S. W. Haremski, 61 years old, an attorney residing at 5206 West 24th street, Cicero, yesterday began serving a 90 day sentence in the county jail imposed in 1925 by Superior Judge Francis Wilson when the lawyer refused to account for 25,000 gallons of alcohol missing from the soap factory of Crafts & Reed company, 3335 West Austin avenue.

Woman Artist Is Elected Royal Academy Associate

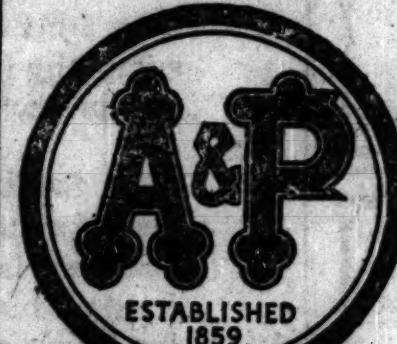

(Copyright 1927 by The New York Times.) LONDON, Nov. 1.—Mrs. Laura Knight, the artist, it was announced tonight, has been elected an associate of the Royal academy. She is the first woman to gain that distinction since 1769. Mrs. Knight was also the first English woman to serve on a jury at an international art exhibition, having had that honor in Pittsburgh in 1922.

Good Things for Feast Days and All other days

The doors of A&P are closed to all foodstuffs save those which are thus known to be good—which are sure to please the buyer and bring her back.

Clams and Oysters

The "R" months are here, which means, according to old traditions, that we may again indulge in oysters. All sea foods should be eaten frequently, for they contain that valuable mineral, iodine, which is not found in abundance in any other foods. Clams and oysters have more than twice as much iodine as other sea fish, so are especially useful in reducing the chance of goiter.

Clams may be cleaned of sand by covering with cornmeal for some time, and then washing in cold water.

Pigs in Blankets

Select large oysters. Wrap each in a half strip of bacon, fasten with toothpick, and broil until bacon curls. Serve on toast and garnish with parsley.

Oysters Sauté

Sprinkle large oysters with salt and pepper. With a fork, dip each in powdered cracker crumbs. Put 2 tablespoons butter in hot pan, brown oysters on one side and then the other.

New England Clam Chowder

1 quart clams
4 cups potato cubes
2½ inch cube fat salt pork
1 onion, sliced
1 tablespoon salt
4 tablespoons butter
4 cups scalded milk

Clean clams, using 1 cup water; drain, reserve liquor, heat to boiling point and strain through fine cheesecloth. Cut pork in small pieces and brown the onion in the fat. Parboil potatoes 5 minutes in boiling salted water, drain. Place layer of potatoes in double boiler, add chopped clams, dredge with salt, pepper and flour. Add remaining potatoes, sprinkle with flour. Then add 2½ cups of boiling water in which the potatoes were cooked, and cook 10 minutes. Add milk, onion, pork and butter. Cook 10 minutes. Just before serving add clam liquor, thicken with a little flour if necessary.

Clams for Clam Bake

Wash clams in sea water and place on stones, previously heated by burning wood on them, ashes removed and stones sprinkled with sea weed. Cover clams with sea weed and throw over pile a piece of burlap to retain the steam.

HOME BUILDERS CHARGE FRAUD; WUNT PROMOTERS

Two Men Disappear from Luxurious Offices.

Search was started yesterday on the offices of Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Michael for Lyle T. Laub and H. C. Osborne, as a result of several complaints about their methods in dealing in real estate through the Columbia Building Company, which was operated at 612 North Michigan avenue.

P. P. Van Waser, 2604 Wilson avenue, who was made secretary of the company on payment of $15,000, was one of those who asked the prosecutor's office for an investigation.

He said he has not seen either man for over a week, that the office was in the luxurious suite maintained by the concern is unpaid, and that he is unable to determine the financial status of the company.

Complaint of $15,000 Loss.

The first complaint was made by Attorney Irving Breakstone, representing Mrs. Caroline Trowbridge and her friends, Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lawton, who live at 8190 Dorchester avenue. The three claim to have lost about $15,000 in their dealings with the company.

Van Waser told the prosecutor he believed about $85,000 had been taken by the concern, but in view of the amounts involved in the few complaints received it is believed that it might total considerably more.

Mrs. Virginia Ehrhardt, 4045 North Lowell avenue, a confidential secretary for Laub, will probably be questioned today to determine what knowledge she had of her employer's business.

Use of Mortgages Involved.

Van Waser said that the system of the company was to build new homes in exchange for old buildings. An old home would be taken in as payment for a new building in a different location, with the guarantee that it would be free of all incumbrances. Instead it would later be found that large conventional mortgages were against the new property.

Policeman Ed Frennhofer of Hamilton suffered a broken leg and internal injuries yesterday morning when he tripped over a rope set for him by Halloween revelers he was pursuing. MEMPHIS BANK CLOSES AS CHIEF COMMITTS SUICIDE

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Columbia Savings bank and the Columbia Mortgage and Trust company did not open for business today following the suicide late yesterday of Charles L. Tucker, 49, president of the two institutions.

Mr. Tucker, who succeeded Peter G. Grant to the presidency of the two institutions when the latter committed suicide last July 14, returned to his home from the bank yesterday afternoon and was found dead two hours later. There was a bullet wound in his head and a pistol lay near his hand.

Shortly before he left the bank he had been informed by telephone from New York that a large insurance company would no longer do its loan business through the mortgage company.

Gets 90 Days for $3,000 Embezzlement in Bank

George Kelly, 31 years old, former teller of the Lawrence Avenue National bank, was sentenced yesterday by Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe to serve ninety days in the Wheaton jail. Kelly pleaded guilty to embezzling $3,000 from the bank.

CANTON, CRADLE OF CHINA REVOLT, STARTS NEW ONE

Cuts Off from Yangtze Military Factions.

BY JOHN POWELL.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
[Overland, 1927, by The Chicago Tribune.]
KIAMOCHI, Nov. 1.—Taking a tip from Senator Hiram Bingham, who recently investigated conditions in the area, the Canton Kuomintang has announced the establishment of the first regional government in China. A meeting of the Kuomintang at Canton announced:

"The time has arrived for the establishment of a true nationalist government, based on civilian control."
The meeting was attended by Wang Chingwei, former chairman of the central executive committee of the Kuomintang; T. Y. Seng, former finance minister in the Hanks government; Chen Kung-po, prominent Kuomintangist, and Gen. Li Chium, former subordinate of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and a leading Canton military leader.

Cuts Off from Army.
While the resolution does not mention the cutting off of relations from the nationalist government in the Yangtze valley, the Canton group declares itself the highest Kuomintang authority and issues an invitation to other Kuomintangists interested in the establishment of civilian rule and not dominated by military forces, to come to Canton and ally themselves with the Canton regional administration.
Another resolution calls a meeting of the fourth plenary session of the Kuomintang, which previously was held by the Nanking government, but which was postponed owing to the armed clash with the Hankow forces.

Foreign observers here interpret Canton's action to mean a virtual severance of relations from the Yangtze valley factions, but it is not believed Canton intends to launch another military advance against the Yangtze leaders.

No More War Chest.
A prominent member of the new Canton regime said today:
"We raised $100,000,000 and sacri-

MRS. GEORGE FITZMAURICE.
Diana Kane, sister of Lois Wilson, motion picture actress, was married in Santa Barbara, Cal., last night to George Fitzmaurice, film director.

Ased 100,000 soldiers making a military advance from Canton to the Yangtze valley, but, due to dissension in the ranks of the Kuomintang, the situation has degenerated into the usual military checker game, not greatly different from the military feudalism prevailing in North China. Hence, the leaders and members of the Kuomintang interested in the preservation of civilian government and the establishment of the principles of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, decided to start over again, establishing a regional government, including Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces, and devoting ourselves to domestic improvement and not wasting the people's funds in military adventures."

LEGS IN WINDOW; FILM STAR GIVES BERLIN MYSTERY

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
BERLIN, Nov. 1.—Lya de Putti, temperamental Hungarian movie star, who returned to Berlin from Hollywood to appear in a German film, has provided Berlin with a mystery as a result of an escape which nearly cost her her life.

Neighbors describe how last night the starry-eyed Lya was exchanging insults such as "hyena" and other complimentary names from the zoological world with a keeper man who had followed her on her recent peregrinations.

The scene took place on the public staircase of her apartment house.

The neighbors listened in until Lya de Putti gave a final shriek. Rushing to the rescue, the neighbors found her with her legs sticking through the window panes of the porter's lodge. She had suffered deep cuts, which opened the arteries.

Doctors tried to bind the wounds, but found an operation would be necessary, and took the movie queen to a hospital.

Eighteen months ago Lya jumped from a window of her apartment during a similar scene, but only suffered minor wounds.

The actress was expected to return to the United States late this month, but her work here will be delayed as a result of the accident.

COMPERS DEAD, BUT HAND IS FELT STILL IN MEXICO

Wanted Reds' Control of Mexican Labor.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—President Calles is nearing the close of his term as ruler over unruly Mexico. The most remarkable development of his term has been the friendly relations between the American Federation of Labor in the United States and the Mexican Federation of Labor, generally known in Mexico as the Cron.

Although President Calles is proclaimed as a labor president, he has been more of a protector of labor than labor has been a real help to him in the government of a strong government. He has had to pull together numerous antagonistic and opposing elements before even a beginning could be made of the study of a national sentiment, or his concession to labor went to the extent of appointing Luis Carrillo, labor leader, to the post of secretary of commerce and industry. With this labor had to content itself.

Aggravates a Bigger Factor.
The Agrarians, with whom the Cron has ever had a crow to pick, composing as they do, potentially some 6,000,000 peasants and practically all the rank and file of the army, have always been much more important national and international factor. So Calles has kept on the most friendly terms with them and his leaders though the Cron has not. The late Samuel Gompers' influence in Mexico was exercised almost entirely through Morones, and the American Federation of Labor backed Calles government as it would have wanted any professedly labor government in Latin America, as a matter of solidarity. Labor leaders here maintain Calles made no promise to Gompers when he was here in December, 1924, or at any other time, except that of protecting labor within the limits of the constitution and the laws of Mexico, and the A. F. of L. agreed only to help in organizing and consolidating labor throughout Latin America.

All maintain Calles has done much more for organized labor in Mexico than he promised and that he was a great admirer of Gompers.

Hope Reach Toward Bolshevism.
At the Pan-American convention of labor held in Laredo in 1923 Gompers was in answer to the question how organized labor getting on in Mexico. "Mexico's bell-pent for Russia in our business to prevent it's getting there."

What Gompers did to prevent this in the following five years is interesting as its influence is still one of the strongest factors in the equations of organized labor in Mexico.

In December, 1924, one week before his death, Gompers, then in Mexico, said to THE TRIBUNE representative:

"The flow of the tide once Russia-ward, from here, is receding and the power of Russian influence and communism are on the decline in Mexico."

Gives Credit to Labor.
Gompers attributed this change in the attitude of Mexican labor to the tireless efforts of the American Federation of Labor. He said:

"We Americans have no sympathy with Russia in her efforts to disrupt the labor machinery of the world, but so long as she remains at home we are bound to follow our policy of non-interference in the local affairs of labor organizations and to allow her to manage Russian labor as she sees fit, because we, as foreigners, have no right to presume that we know the labor needs and conditions of Russia better than the Russians themselves. We, however, expect Russia to observe the same attitude in this respect as we. When Russian propagandists not only enter Latin America but attempt to set organized labor there against the American Federation of Labor, it is our business to fight this propaganda in the interest of organized labor on this continent."

Strikes Hard at Communism.
Gompers fought Russian influence in Mexico tooth and nail and the prestige, power, influence and machinery of American organized labor were brought to bear on organized labor in Mexico; and the communist idea

CONSTIPATION IS THE ENEMY OF HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings prompt, natural relief!

Rid your system of constipation and help yourself to health. Headaches, bad breath, insomnia, muddy complexion are only a few of the symptoms of this widespread evil.

Constipation is the actual cause of more than forty diseases. No wonder good health is impossible when it is present. Guard against it! Protect your health!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Two tablespoonfuls eaten daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend Kellogg's because it is 100% bran. Because it works as no part-bran product can do.

Delicious with milk or cream—add fruits or honey. Mix it with other cereals. Use in cooking. Sprinkle over soups. Recipes on the package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served by restaurants, hotels, cafeterias. Sold by all grocers.

interference in Cuba, Mexico, Central and South America was given no quarter.

But the battle was not easily won. Spanish Socialists had begun active work in Mexico as far back as 1907; and they were followed by Russian and American radicals, after the fall of Porfirio Diaz in the spring of 1911. Extremists and socialist idealists had prepared the fall of Diaz, who was represented by them to be the tyrant of tyrants.

The first organizers of labor in Mexico had their faces ever Russia-ward; and as Gompers clearly saw, they set out with the determination of bringing Russia and Mexico into the closest communion. They declared, on all occasions, that Russia and Mexico were destined to hold together because they were fighting the same enemies: tyrants, capital and the bourgeoisie, which must be swept from the face of the earth before the masses could be regenerated and reclaimed.

Russia Fears in Mexico.
Russian money has poured into Mexico to pay for Russian propaganda by Russian and other agents who have often been self-assertive and arrogant. The communist organ EL Machete, which had a circulation of about 5,000 weekly, suddenly, according to its own confession, began to issue 50,000 weekly, after the coming of the first Russian minister to Mexico. It was distributed to mining camps, oil fields and factories. Very few copies were given out in the larger cities because these are and were the stronghold of the Cron.

The old Mexican Labor party, which was and still is popularly known as "The Reds," stood and still stands, theoretically at least, for communism in lands; and it was and is the strongest support of the communal land holding system which was held up to be the only solution for the Mexican agrarian problem.

Gompers had no use for communism in any form, because, as he said, it destroyed the individuality of the laborer which was his greatest asset. So, on every occasion, he gave his voice against communal lands, and in favor of the small homestead.

The struggle between Gompers and the Mexican Reds was without quarter.

The struggle between Gompers and the Mexican Reds was without quarter.

Gompers had no use for communism in any form, because, as he said, it destroyed the individuality of the laborer which was his greatest asset. So, on every occasion, he gave his voice against communal lands, and in favor of the small homestead.

GIANT TEACHER, BROKE, ENDS HER LIFE IN MEXICO

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—Reina Bullis, normal graduate from California, ended her life here yesterday under tragic circumstances. Miss Bullis had been a teacher in American schools here for twenty years, and had taught two generations of American children, though she was under 30 years of age.

Some months ago she lost her position as teacher, when the staff was reduced, due to financial stringency. Two days ago she got notice to vacate the rooms she occupied because she could not pay the rent. Too proud to ask help from friends and former pupils, she shut herself in the bathroom and, after chloroforming her favorite cat, took chloroform herself.

Miss Bullis for several years was one of a notable trio of teachers in the Pan-American college in Mexico City. All were between 6 feet 4 inches and 6 feet 6 inches tall.

Chuckles

from the Chuckle-makers

[Chuckle No. 33]

By Leroy Asher, 510 Bigelow Street, Peoria, Illinois

Some of the finest comedy, humor and chuckles are produced in the early morning hours. I think this one is a very good one.

Upon entering the house at three in the morning Johnnie, a very sophisticated fraternity brother, met his father who was returning from a late poker party.

"Good morning, son of the devil," exclaimed the parent.

"Hello, father," replied Johnnie. When I was young and we found ourselves out too late, we almost always left our shoes in the hall and tip-toed in the back way, but I suppose times are changing. It is too bad that Johnnie didn't have a roll of my old-fashioned candy, made from the finest cane sugar, finest flavor, and a secret formula, to offer his father. I'm sure they would have been friends right away. Eat five of these Chuckles today, and then get—

BETTER BE SAFE THAN SORRY!

Today's Biggest Profit in Merchandising comes from finding and stopping WASTE. Only patient, intensive research can locate the leak and prescribe the plug. Very little Manufacturing Waste now—Research stopped that. Enormous Waste all over the country in DISTRIBUTION. Too much generalization!—too much territory made to fit Plans instead of Plans made to fit Territory!

But not in Cleveland!

The Plain Dealer has made a patient, intensive Research into the Buying Characteristics of Cleveland and its tributary market. 300 Sales Campaigns were used in the process and $150,000 expended in Cleveland Market Research.

This judicious expenditure of time, thought and money is available to YOU—it will prevent WASTE in the Distribution of your merchandise in Cleveland and today's Biggest Profit in Merchandising is Finding and Stopping WASTE!

SALES MANAGERS favoring Safe Procedure in Cleveland will secure it by writing to National Advertising Dept., Cleveland Plain Dealer, Cleveland, Ohio—those living in Chicago or thereabouts should phone Woodward & Kelly (Central 4736), 360 N. Michigan Ave.

Selling the Cleveland Market without first knowing all its selling facts is a needless experiment.

Needless—because The Plain Dealer has all the selling FACTS, tabulated from hundreds of merchandising campaigns in the Cleveland Market and they are available without "testing" or obligation.

These facts, indeed, may not warrant any Plain Dealer advertising—they may not warrant any Cleveland newspaper advertising, but they always indicate SAFE PROCEDURE.

So many successful campaigns have begun with this Cleveland Market EXPERIENCE that—as far as Cleveland is concerned—The Plain Dealer's Market Service Department is now generally accepted as MERCHANDISING HEADQUARTERS FOR NATIONAL ADVERTISERS.

LONDON TO SPEND $12,500,000 TO IMPROVE SUBWAY

Put On Bigger Trains to Meet Traffic Needs.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright, 1927, by The Chicago Tribune.]
LONDON, Nov. 1.—The London underground railway system is to be completely overhauled and new rolling stock provided, at a cost of £12,500,000 ($12,500,000), it was announced today. The improvements are to be made despite the fact that the London system is declared to be the best and most up to date in the world.

The first work will be done on the old underground railway system, which preceded the tubes. An entire outfit of new rolling stock will be supplied there. The old trains will be withdrawn and new ones put on without interrupting the service. The job of completely reequipping the system will take two years.

Due to Growth of Traffic.
Frank Pick, assistant managing director, said the growth of traffic necessitated the improvement. Larger cars and longer trains are needed, as well as faster time.

On special occasions, like a foot ball match or the lord mayor's show, 150 persons have been crowded into a car built to seat forty-eight.

Faherty to See London Tubes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
DUBLIN, Ireland, Nov. 1.—Michael J. Faherty and his Chicago party, which is investigating European subway systems, will go to London to complete their studies Thursday and Friday.

Mr. Faherty visited his ancestor's home at Moycullean, Galway.

"No one was as pleased to be in Ireland as I am," he said. "I have been for fifty years a member of the organization in America whose object is to raise the Irish flag, after centuries of suppression and now when we find that flag floating everywhere unchallenged, I am delighted. The progress has been wonderful in the last five years and if maintained, Ireland soon will rank high among the nations of the world."

BODY OF FORMER CHICAGO EDITOR IS FOUND IN LAKE

The body of Theodore M. R. Von Keller, 49 years old, a former associate editor of the Chicago Abendpost, was found in the lake near the Municipal pier last night.

Apparently he had committed suicide. His coat and hat were found on the pier Monday afternoon and a search had been conducted by coast guards since then. He had been missing for the last three days from his home in the York hotel at 4308 Sheridan road.

The identification of the body was made through a passport dated in 1925 empowering Von Keller to go to Germany. In the pockets of his clothing $3 was found. Chicago avenue police said that the body of the former editor's friends that he had been in financial difficulties, but had declined to accept any aid.

At the York hotel it was learned that Mrs. Helen A. Von Keller, his wife, left several weeks ago for her parents' home near Girard, Kas., with the explanation that her father was ill.

A native of Germany and educated in one of the great universities there, Von Keller came to the United States some years ago and was on the staff of Collier's Weekly. At one time he was a copy reader on the Liberty staff.

BUILDING OF NEW CLARK ST. BRIDGE TO START BY FEB. 1

Removal of the old bridge over the Chicago river at Clark street and construction of a new span of the basic type will be started by the city within the next 90 days, it was announced last night by Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe.

An appropriation of $1,500,000 from a bond issue voted for the bridge was made available yesterday by the city council's finance committee. Because of its supports in the center of the river the old structure has been condemned by the war department as an impediment to navigation.

Traffic will be detoured over the Dearborn and Wells street bridge until the new span is completed.

RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

(Wednesday, Nov. 2.)

(Central Standard Time)

W-G-N Listeners Taken to Mormonland Tonight

Another of the popular "Somewhere in Chicagoland" episodes, sketching pleasant vistas and historic sites in the vast territory surrounding Chicago, will be the high light of tonight's program from W-G-N. This time listeners will be taken for a motor jaunt down around Nauvoo, Ill., where Mormonism first reached its popularity, and where relics of the Mormons of the last century still abound. Special music during the program will be furnished by the W-G-N studio ensemble.

Vocal music in today's program is topped by the appearance between 9:50 and 10 o'clock of Edwin Kemp, the young tenor who recently rejoined the W-G-N forces after an absence of several months.

In this ten minutes Mr. Kemp will sing a wide variety of songs, including several ballads that are among the favorites of all radio listeners. Fern Scull, W-G-N's regular staff accompanist, will be at the piano.

Lyons and Healy Melody Time, by the Washburn trio, under the direction of Henry Dixon, will be another of the interesting bits in the evening. Melody Time starts at 10:40 o'clock, with the trio playing "Walkie." Roy Austin and August Plada, who with Mr. Dixon compose the trio, will offer a guitar duet, "Bustling Rag Medley." Henry Dixon is also to play a ukulele solo, "The Roaming." They will close their program with "Old Plantation," a Hawaiian folk song.

Between 9:30 and 9:40 o'clock tonight listeners will be entertained by a novelty program from New York of popular orchestra music and several vocal offerings.

J. D. Roth of the International Mercantile Marine company will give this afternoon's "Where Are You Going?" talk for the W-G-N Woman's club program at 3 o'clock. Mr. Roth will discuss "By Sea to California," describing the delights of the water route to the Golden Gate. Another interesting talk to be heard this afternoon will be that given under the auspices of the Chicago Region.

W-G-N household expert will discuss "Egg Dishes" during this morning's Home Management period, 10 to 10:30 o'clock.

CANDIDATES POP INTO CONFERENCE ON FARM RELIEF

But Demand Is Made for "Right" Kind of Law.

St. Louis, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Presidential possibilities popped into the air at a conference of farm leaders here today when Gov. McKillop of Nebraska attacked Senator Borah for his attempt to divide western farmers in the movement toward Gov. Roosevelt.

Borah's plan to gain control of western delegates to the Republican convention Gov. McKillop said had "no other purpose than to divide western farmers in the movement toward Gov. Roosevelt."

"No set in Mr. Borah's record," McKillop continued, "entitles him to consideration as a leader of farm opinion."

Lowden and Al Smith.

The conference, representing four states and attended by some 300 farmers, a smaller number of farm leaders, agricultural teachers and editors, and a few men in public office, was nonpartisan, but the Lowden sentiment among the Republican members appeared strong. Among the Democrats no candidate was discussed with the degree of enthusiasm shown by the Lowden, but the southern men present appeared to think Gov. Al Smith would be the nominee.

The conference voiced an instant demand that when congress meets in December it pass the McNary-Haugen bill, a measure with similar provisions, before adjournment.

A resolutions committee, headed by Gov. McKillop, an advocate of the McNary-Haugen bill, was announced by former Gov. George W. Donaghy of Arkansas, who presided over the conference.

President Is Criticized.

Gov. McKillop said the farmers of the four states should strive for the election of men who are "right" in the agricultural question, and who are not "forlorn hopes." He termed President Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill "the crowning act of disregard of party pledges," and said this act of neglect had been followed by no positive move.

"As a Republican without prefix or suffix," Gov. McKillop demanded that a similar measure be passed and sent to the President. The measure, he said, should contain the principle of equalization, although caring for surplus crops.

"We don't want a loan bill," he declared. "The farmer doesn't want to borrow any more money, he wants a chance to get out of debt. The same industrial policies that have upbuilt the industrial era are necessary for the saving of agriculture. Labor, after the war, was protected in retaining the surplus it had won and there was emergency tariff legislation for industry."

"We don't want a loan bill," he declared. "The farmer doesn't want to borrow any more money, he wants a chance to get out of debt. The same industrial policies that have upbuilt the industrial era are necessary for the saving of agriculture. Labor, after the war, was protected in retaining the surplus it had won and there was emergency tariff legislation for industry."

Following Gov. McKillop, Dr. Henry

Lowden, a Republican, said the farmers of the four states should strive for the election of men who are "right" in the agricultural question, and who are not "forlorn hopes." He termed President Coolidge's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill "the crowning act of disregard of party pledges," and said this act of neglect had been followed by no positive move.

"As a Republican without prefix or suffix," Gov. McKillop demanded that a similar measure be passed and sent to the President. The measure, he said, should contain the principle of equalization, although caring for surplus crops.

C. Taylor of Northwestern university, Clarence Owsley, of Texas, former assistant secretary of agriculture; Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas; Dr. Tait Butler, of Memphis; and C. O. Moser of Memphis, president of the American Cotton Growers' Exchange, made addresses.

Senator Capper demanded that the farmer be put on a basis of equality with other industry. He said any legislation enacted by the next congress must deal with the farm surplus and aid the farmer in organizing for marketing purposes.

"Tariff One Sided."

The address of Dr. Taylor gained close attention. "We probably do not have too much agriculture in the United States at the present time," he said, "but we have too much to be profitable under our present tariff laws. The real difficulty is that the prices farmers pay for what they buy in the United States are on an abnormally high basis relative to prices in world markets in which the farmers sell their surplus, and which determine the prices of our staples sold at home. This is the result of effective group action to limit competition through trade rules, and an abnormally high protective tariff on industrial products."

Henry C. Cooke, G. A. R. Leader, Taken by Death

Henry C. Cooke, assistant adjutant general and assistant quartermaster general of the department of Illinois, G. A. R., died yesterday at his home, 709 North Waller avenue. He was 55 years old and was the last surviving member of George H. Thomas post 1, of which he was a past commander. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the First Congregational church of Oak Park.

The protective tariff was declared by Dr. Taylor to be "a factor in enabling certain groups temporarily to secure a higher standard of living at the expense of other groups."

FLORENCE MILLS, NEGRO THEATER STAR, DEAD AT 32

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Florence Mills, one of the best known of the Negro theatrical stars, died at a hospital today, following an operation for appendicitis. She was 32 and only recently had returned from a triumph abroad where she appeared in the leading role in a revue. Graduating from the Harlem cabarets, and the New York production of "Shuffle Along" to take Europe by storm, Miss Mills became one of the most popular performers in the continental theater. As the star of "Blackbirds," a Negro revue, she conquered London despite a move by the British Artists' federation to bar her from the English stage.

The prince of Wales was counted in her "Blackbirds" audience eleven times and the show attracted the patronage of London's social leaders.

STAGE FAVORITE OF EIGHTIES DIES AT SEVENTY-NINE

Portland, Me., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Marion Josephine King, for many years prominent in the dramatic world as Josephine Cameron, died today at the age of 79 years.

Josephine Cameron made her debut as a leading lady in San Francisco in 1879 as "Julia" in "The Hunchback." Her first engagement was in Portland, Ore., with a stock company in which Maude Adams' mother was the leading woman and little Maude played child parts.

In 1889 she engaged Louis Clifford (Louis

BOSTONIAN WINS RICH STAKE AT PIMLICO TRACK

Victory Nets H. P. Whitney Stable $22,900.

Pimlico, Md., Nov. 1. (Special.)—Harry Payne Whitney captured another rich Maryland stake this afternoon, the opening day of the Pimlico meeting, when his home bred colt, Bostonian, headed a field of ten three year olds at the winning post at the end of the second running of the Riggs handicap over the trying course of a mile and a half. Bostonian ran a slashing race under the pilotage of Sonny Workman, getting to the front on the final turn and holding his own in the run home. Black Panther was second and Mike Hall third.

It was a thrilling race with the positions changing rapidly and the heart beats of 20,000 spectators throbbing in sympathy with the struggling thoroughbreds. Bostonian, paying $21.20 in the mutuels for each $2 ticket, was the medium of a last minute club house plunge which reduced his price considerably.

Bostonian ran a fast race under his 113 pounds, only two pounds under the top weight carried by Marshall Field's Nimba, the favorite, which finished in last place.

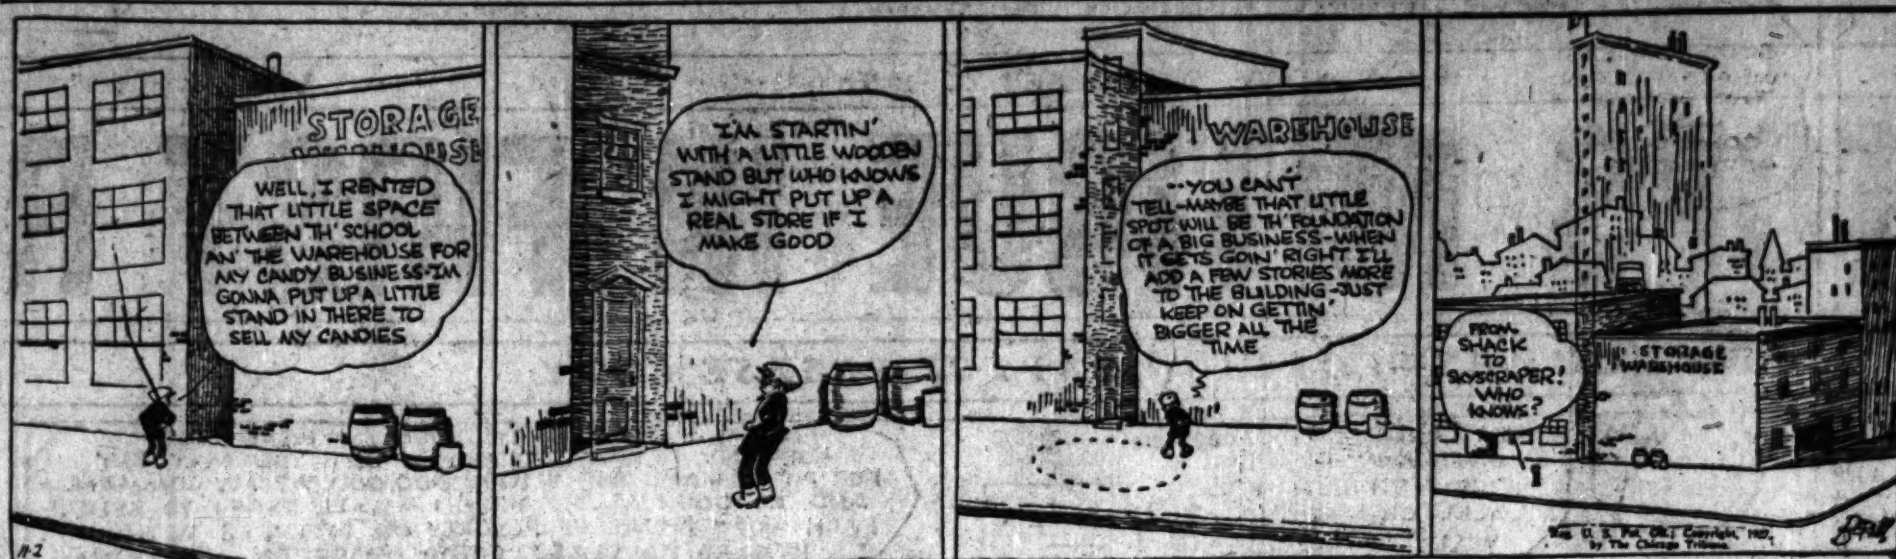

The race was run in 2:31 1/5, only three-fifths of a second under the course record established by Altwood three years ago. Bostonian, winner of the Freehairs stakes at this course last spring, earned $22,900 by his victory, placing him up with the big money winners of the year.

Harvard Plans Football Game in Middle West

Harvard, Horween Hope for Board's O. K.

WALTER ECKERSALL

Walter Eckersall, director of athletics at Harvard, told a group of football officials in Cambridge Saturday that he expected to take a Harvard team into the middle west for three or four years.

Eckersall stated further he would make no choice of an opponent but he would open negotiations with the school. He said, however, that he hoped the game could be played in a large stadium. The Cambridge director made it plain this game had been called to the attention of athletic authorities and that he was talking from a personal standpoint.

Boost for Harvard.

It was agreed that the appearance of a Harvard eleven in the middle west not only would be a boost for the team but for Harvard as well. Middle west fans look upon Harvard as sort of football autocrat. This perhaps is the fact Harvard seldom loses in its own field. The contention is that Harvard hand picks its opponents and has consensated to only one game away from home since 1910, when it played Princeton.

Whether Harvard football officials consent to a Harvard team going west, "Alumni in the middle west" urged us each year to schedule a game. Ten eleven so they might see Harvard in action.

Harvard Frowns on Trip.

It has been sort of an unwritten law at Harvard to play only one game away from home each fall. Whether the board would consent to more than one game on foreign fields, I can not say. Personally, I hope to see Harvard will play in the middle west within the next three or four years.

At Chicago, in set on being a Crimson team into the middle west before he gives up coaching at Harvard.

"I hope it can be brought about," Eckersall said. "There are certain things which we must meet every year. Some give us stubborn competition early in the season and we do not want to have too many hard games late in the season. Yale, for instance, has been in favor of Harvard meeting a western conference eleven for years and it may be arranged in the near future."

Hawaiian Stars for Dayton, Loyola U. For Saturday

Bob Swan will be one of the attractions in the Dayton university back field when the Flyers meet Loyola university in Soldiers' field Saturday in Loyola's final game in Chicago. Swan is a Hawaiian, one of the few to achieve fame in the game as played in this country, and an important cog in the Flyers combination. He is likely to be called upon by Coach Bauman to do the punting, and may do some of the forward passing.

Hanley Gives Purple Dose of Tackling

Practically eliminating actual scrimmage from this week's training program to avoid further casualties, Coach Dick Hanley last night sent his Northwestern Wildcats through an intensive drill on defense, wherein tackling was stressed.

The Purple first team is well rid of injuries and although it is expected that the entire squad will be ready for the Purdue game at Lafayette Saturday, careful nursing will be necessary to have them in shape.

Six regulars and several important relief men are convalescing from injuries at present. Included are Capt. Gustafson, Lewis, Calderwood and Hiss, backs, and Fisher, Kent, Dart and Karsten, linemen. Dart, however, was the only one unable to report in uniform last night. Leg injuries suffered in the Missouri game will keep him out of practice another day, it is thought.

While the line continued the tackling drill under Coach Pat Hanley and Jack Ryan, the backs were sent down to one end of the field, where Dick Hanley and Herb Steger introduced them in the art of backing up opponents' long passes, a practice in which they appeared deficient Saturday.

A signal drill wound up the session, as heavy showers commenced to inundate the gridiron. Inasmuch as many of the squad were not in full working order, there was no attempt to decipher Purdue plays. There will be a little scrimmage tonight, although mostly of the "shadow" variety, with one team of frosh executing the Boiler-makers' offensive tactics for the first time.

PURDUE END INJURED.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—An injury to the third man who has attempted to play left end for Purdue, Burt Dreyer, was announced today when he was removed to a hospital suffering from a badly crippled knee. Dreyer was hurt in practice last night, but it was thought that the injury was only slight. The previous casualties at the position were Leon Hutton and Bill Woerner.

BOXER SUSPENDED.

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Frankie Vaca of St. Paul has been suspended indefinitely by the Missouri athletic commission for alleged "faking" in his bout with Kid Klier last night at Joplin.

MICHIGAN GAMES TO SET RECORD

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Michigan's football team will shatter all existing attendance records for football games this fall, as it will play before nearly a half million spectators before the season ends, Harry Tilton, son, business manager of the athletic association, announced today.

No team in the country can boast of a total approaching this mark. The attendance figures follow:

Ohio Wesleyan	46,000
Michigan State	35,000
Wisconsin	32,000
Illinois	27,000
Chicago	27,000
Navy	27,000
Minnesota	27,000

6 VALLEY TEAMS AIM TO REMAIN IN TITLE RACE

But Face Elimination in 3 Games Saturday.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Coach Bob Zuppke divided his University of Illinois squad this afternoon into four teams, under the direction of Coaches Olander, Lundgren, Rokusek, and Klein, while Zup himself circulated among the players as they drilled on new formations for the Saturday game with Iowa.

Art D'Ambrosio was back at work, playing in the backfield of the second team and then with the first string. Ken Deimling, end, watched the practice, but was not in uniform. Timm was back in action after a day's rest. In the absence of Capt. Bob Reitech, out for a few days, Harry Richman was at pivot on the first eleven, which was directed by Quarter Back Stussay.

Grange and Wolgast were at ends on the first eleven, with Nowack and Schulz and Crane and McClure at guard.

Columbus, O., Nov. 1.—(Special)—Working under scorching skies until dark, then aided by the glare of the large searchlights, Coach J. W. Wilson drilled the Ohio State university players for their fray with Princeton Saturday.

The first team met the B squad, which used Princeton offense and defense, while Coach Wilson repeatedly made substitutions both in the line and in the back field.

The first team lined up at the beginning of scrimmage with Alber and Bell at ends, Meyer and Raskowski, tackles; Young and Cox, guards, while Schear and Ullery alternated at center. In the back field, Kries and Grim both were at half back, Fouch at quarter, and Rowan and Oshner at full back.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—(Special)—The Wisconsin grid squad's workout was interrupted today by a thunder shower, which put parts of the practice field under water. Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite called the athletes under the Camp Randall stands, and gave them a long talk on errors that appeared in the Minnesota game last Saturday.

Thistlethwaite is anxious to polish off the glaring defects as soon as possible, as he and members of the squad will spare no effort to wind up the season with victories over Iowa and Chicago.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 1.—(Special)—With Pignatelli, reserve quarter back, and Porter, sophomore, carrying the ball in great style, Iowa's football team rode rough shod over the yearlings in the practice scrimmage today.

The varsity aggregation used new offensive plays which the Illinois defense, presented by the frosh, could not stop. Pignatelli's work was good enough to assure him of starting against Illinois Saturday.

Hopes for a Hawkeye victory over the Illini have grown brighter this week because of the good form displayed by the Hawkeyes in practice and because of the showing of sophomore stars. Grimm and Johnstone continued to be at ends instead of Carlson and Cuhel.

Do You Know This Lane Tech Star?

This is the thirteenth personality sketch of Chicago high school football players.

Lane Tech has a star back field player who might be one of the characters in a Herbie Alster story. This is the first year he has played regularly, but for the two preceding years he was out for the team striving to earn that position. And now he is one of Lane's best.

He is a good passer, can drop kick, but excels in open field running. However, his best asset is his cold headed judgment in the excitement of the game. At Lincoln, Neb., last year when Lane played there, he demonstrated that ability and again, it was his judgment which aided Lane to a victory over Waller last Saturday.

This player is a student of more than average ability. He is quiet and liked by his team mates and associates. He is taking a four year technical course, which he hopes to continue next fall at either Armour Tech or the University of Illinois.

The picture of this player will appear tomorrow. The next sketch will be printed at the same time.

ROY C. PATTERSON, PITCHER FOR SOX OF 1900-06, DIES

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Roy C. Patterson, pitcher for the Chicago White Sox during the period of 1900 to 1906, when the team was known as the "hitless wonders," died in the Montgomery County home at Black Rock last Saturday. It was learned today. Found ill and wandering the streets of Bridgeport, near here, about ten days ago, he was sent to the almshouse.

Patterson for several seasons was one of the leading pitchers of the Chicago team. Records credit him with winning 29 games in 1900 and leading the American league in the first year of its existence.

Joe Beckett, quarter back in 1924 and one of the freshmen coaches this year, is among those who expect Jones back next year. Lovejoy, a great center three years ago, is as strong as Beckett in that belief. Capt. Webster, Charlesworth, Caldwell, Hall and West deny that any one has been seriously considered as a possible successor to Jones.

Spaniels Are Aid to Game Conservation

BY BOB BECKER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Round Pond, Morris, Ill., Nov. 1.—Queen, the hard working Irish water spaniel belonging to Frank Collins, experienced a busy afternoon yesterday as all but one of the ducks knocked down by Frank's 20 gauge and our 12 gauge dropped in the pond and water, had the time of her life toiling the birds to our blind. Any hunter who does not believe that a spaniel adds to the day's sport and contributes to the cause of conservation by finding crippled birds should have been in our blind and seen this dog in action.

Queen was all over the pond in her work of retrieving and everything went well until she found the mud hens. Rousing these coots, Queen drove them into the air past our blind, scared 'em up when they dropped down on the prairie, and kept the poor old mud hens on the jump until we called her in, a much disgusted dog. She couldn't figure out why we didn't shoot when the birds were driven right past our blind.

Ten minutes later Queen had real work to do. Frank dropped a mallard in front of the blind and we nailed a lone drake baldpate or widgeon, the only one seen during the day. He was a handsome bird and how he did fly. Frank whispered, "It's a baldy, give it to him quick." By the time we were ready to shoot that baldy was going down wind at a speed of 100 miles per hour.

Spaniels are a great aid to game conservation by finding crippled birds and driving them into the air past our blind, scared 'em up when they dropped down on the prairie, and kept the poor old mud hens on the jump until we called her in, a much disgusted dog. She couldn't figure out why we didn't shoot when the birds were driven right past our blind.

Ten minutes later Queen had real work to do. Frank dropped a mallard in front of the blind and we nailed a lone drake baldpate or widgeon, the only one seen during the day. He was a handsome bird and how he did fly. Frank whispered, "It's a baldy, give it to him quick." By the time we were ready to shoot that baldy was going down wind at a speed of 100 miles per hour.

Spaniels Are Aid to Game Conservation

BY BOB BECKER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Round Pond, Morris, Ill., Nov. 1.—Queen, the hard working Irish water spaniel belonging to Frank Collins, experienced a busy afternoon yesterday as all but one of the ducks knocked down by Frank's 20 gauge and our 12 gauge dropped in the pond and water, had the time of her life toiling the birds to our blind. Any hunter who does not believe that a spaniel adds to the day's sport and contributes to the cause of conservation by finding crippled birds should have been in our blind and seen this dog in action.

Queen was all over the pond in her work of retrieving and everything went well until she found the mud hens. Rousing these coots, Queen drove them into the air past our blind, scared 'em up when they dropped down on the prairie, and kept the poor old mud hens on the jump until we called her in, a much disgusted dog. She couldn't figure out why we didn't shoot when the birds were driven right past our blind.

TRADE BUYS CORN ON CROP REPORTS; WHEAT DECLINES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat held within a range of 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ yesterday, with trade largely of a local character. While there was an uptick after an early break, the finish was at intermediate figures, with net losses of 1/4¢ to 1/2¢. December closed at $1.25 1/2 and March at $1.25 1/2. Corn developed considerable strength, private crop estimates and reserves in the aggregate being considered as bullish, and the close was 1/2¢ higher, with December 83 1/2¢ and March 77 1/2¢. Oats gained 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ lower, with rye 1/4¢ higher to 1/2¢ lower. News affecting the wheat market was decidedly mixed. Liverpool was 1/2¢ lower on an estimate by a leading Winnipeg house that Canada would have 44,000,000 bu. of wheat. To some extent this was offset by Broomhall's agents estimate of 54,000,000 bu. for the Australian crop, the lowest figures made so far and suggesting an exportable surplus of 43,000,000 bu. against 130,000,000 bu. last year. There was a holiday in Buenos Aires, but private cables reported weather warmer. Around 4,000,000 acres in the southern part of Argentina need rain badly. The trade continued the private crop estimates as bullish, and local operators bought freely, causing the advance. Selling against offers checked the bulge. Commission houses were moderate buyers of oats and, with light offerings, prices averaged higher. There was exchanging between December and May at 2 1/2¢ difference. Rye was dull, with fair buying appearing on the dips, and the nearby futures showed relative strength, although there were no reports of export business.

Percentage of Exportable Rubber Remains at 60

LONDON, Nov. 1. (AP)—For the quarter opening today the percentage of standard reduction of rubber exportable under the Stevenson plan from Ceylon and Malaya will remain at 60 per cent, as in the last period. The percentage is based on the market price of crude rubber. This sixty per cent of exportable rubber will bear the minimum rate of duty.

$3,000,000 South Park Outer Drive Bonds Sold

South park's bond issue of $3,000,000 for the improvement of Grant park and the extension of the outer drive south was sold yesterday to the W. R. Condon company, the highest of four bids, for $2,999,120.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Corn specialists regard the private crop reports as bullish. They say the small farm reserves, which are 70,000,000 bu. less than last year, offset the large increase in the crop estimates as compared with recent months. Taking the estimated crop with the farm reserves and commercial supplies there are 2,781,000,000 bu. compared with 2,853,000,000 bu. last year. There has been a large disappearance for the season, and traders are disposed to believe that all bearish factors in the corn situation have been discounted. This is inducing local operators to buy corn and sell wheat.

There was some selling of wheat here yesterday on a private report from Canada making the wheat crop 450,000,000 bu. At the same time there was buying on Broomhall's latest estimates of the Australian crop of 54,000,000 bu.

Bartlett-Frazier's Liverpool cable says the wheat market is depressed owing to private Canadian report estimating the crop at 450,000,000 bu.

LARD STOCKS DECREASE

Lard stocks in Chicago decreased 28,576,000 lb. last month, and are 39,847,000 lb. of all kinds, compared with 68,333,000 lb. a month ago, and 25,355,000 lb. the last year. This reduction in the inventory trade figured on, and may have some effect in today's market.

Total stocks of meat are 81,185,000 lb. against 107,585,000 lb. the last month, and 24,223,000 lb. the last year. Heavy selling of distant deliveries of lard on foreign markets was well shown for a time, but prices declined and closed at the inside with net losses of 7 1/2¢ to 10¢ on the distant futures, and unchanged for the nearby. November deliveries were 450,000 lb. and 600,000 lb. the last month, and 600,000 lb. the last year, and 25,355,000 lb. the last year.

Short ribs were unchanged to 25¢ lower, and bellies 10¢ to 15¢ lower. Exports of lard were 510,451 lb. and beans 583,500 lb. Prices follow:

CASH GRAIN NEWS

A holiday on the continent materially curtailed the foreign demand for cash wheat, and the estimated weekly estimated sales in all ports to 200,000 to 300,000 bu. largely for Manitoba. There was little interest in other grades.

The Portrait Invisible

BY JOSEPH GOLLOMB

SYNOPSIS.

On the following Monday Judge Craig does not appear for the opening of a famous case. His younger brother, Bruce, known as the prodigy judge, bitterly resents a suspicion that there may be a woman in the case, even when it is hinted she is a woman. He then, and dismises them with an ultimatum—they are to be always at his disposal.

On the following Monday Judge Craig does not appear for the opening of a famous case. His younger brother, Bruce, known as the prodigy judge, bitterly resents a suspicion that there may be a woman in the case, even when it is hinted she is a woman. He then, and dismises them with an ultimatum—they are to be always at his disposal.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.
ACTION.

Bruce rose to his feet, retaining the telephone. He was silent so long that the telephone clerk asked, "Are you there, Judge Craig?"

"Do you mean to tell me that this man represented himself as my secretary?" Bruce asked harshly.

"The other hesitated. 'Why, no—now that I come to think of it, I must admit that he did not. I guess I confused that part of it when you asked me the same question as he; you spoke of your secretary coming here and I must have read that into my recollection.'

"Let that pass then. Who did buy Number 43?"

"I can tell you that at once because I remember being impressed by it as soon as I looked up the records. It was your brother, Judge Robert Craig, who subscribed for Number 43."

Again the secretary of the Bibliophile Club thought he had lost the wire. Then he heard the telephone receiver at the other end clatter onto its hook; and the line went dead.

"Phone for my car!" Bruce shouted as he dashed through Jane's room carrying his overcoat.

"Bruce!" She caught back the name as quickly as it had escaped her. Two names she had never dared to breathe aloud before he had been evoked from the crest of a cry of fear at the sight of his face. She had seen his face

The steward was tact itself.

As she and harrowed on his first appearance after seeing his murdered brother.

But never before had she seen him so near to frenzy. "Phone for my car!" he had said. In such a mood as his and with his known impatience in driving for him to take the wheel now—

"I won't do it!" she cried. But it was to the empty office.

This time she kept her word; she could not have summoned his car for him any more than she could have laid a dangerous weapon deliberately in his hand at such a time. The man was beside himself. Was it—her lips refused to frame the words—love for Mary Allen?

And all her agonized concentration now on fear for him should his rage get at Mary Allen take the wheel of his car.

Even had Jane telephoned for the car it could not have arrived by the time he was at the curb. An exclamation of fury escaped him; a taxi was summoned and he jumped on the running board. "Grand Garage, Broome" he said and swung himself inside; but his hand remained on the steering wheel.

In front of the garage he jumped out, thrusting a bill into the chauffeur's hand, and hurried in.

This was at the wheel of his car testing something.

"Why, Judge, didn't expect you so soon. So I've been looking that way for you ever since I'd been looking that way for you."

Bruce jumped into the car.

"Tim, please get the Saragosa club on the phone. Ask for Mr. Francis Gray. Tell him I'm coming to take him with me."

Tim tried hard for a heartbeat. "Sure, Judge, but—"

Bruce was rushing the car into action. It trembled under his goading and rolled out to the street. Tim, futile before such a headlong temper, saw his audience before he could finish his speech. Perplexed scratching his overalls with his wrench, he went into the office to telephone the Saragosa club.

Before the establishment of Janvier, the jeweler, he stopped his car but not the engine. The employees in Janvier's suave establishment were startled by Bruce's uncustomerlike entrance and rush. He inquired for and sought Gray in his workshop without once coming to a halt. A watchman who stood inside the workshop where fortunes in precious stones were being made, barred his way.

But Gray called out:

"It's all right, Jerry! It's Judge Craig!"

Gray, wearing a blue linen apron, at sight of Bruce had pushed up the shades and put down his magnifying glass. On a black velvet-lined tray before him lay pinkish pearls.

"Judge! What is it?" Gray exclaimed.

"Where's Miss Allen?"

"What is she doing?"

"When did you last see her?"

"Tuesday afternoon when she left your office. . . . She seemed . . . very much perturbed."

Bruce returned on his heel and left.

Fortunately for Bruce, the signals were set for north and south when he jumped into his car again and sped up the avenue.

He was no one waiting for him on the steps of the Saragosa club. A man with the passion of a curse in it parted his lips; and the hub of his car was an outraged limousine as he whirled in to make the curb in front of the club. Again he left the engine throbbing while he hurried into the Saragosa club.

The Saragosa club derived its name from that semi-mythical, semi-legendary drifting continent of the seas whose tangled vastness of weeds is supposed to have attracted to it stray craft of all the ages. In this club congregated oddments of human driftage, explorers, substantial adventurers, misfits in life, faded gluttons at it, artists in loafing and others who would have been where they could be free from the stares of the orthodox. Attracted to each other by their oddness in common these men at the same time knew how to mind each his own business.

So one but a steward therefore turned to Bruce as he entered, obviously surprised though he was.

BY MAE TINEE.
Good Morning!

I like the simplicity with which this story is screened.

The action opens with a court room scene. The woman on trial is in the witness chair. Behind her are the honorable judge and the jury.

"The evidence is all in, but you are permitted to tell your own story from start to finish in your own way," the woman's lawyer says to her. (Is that the way they do in Paris courts?) The witness starts her narrative. Her story is the picture:

She tells why she killed the man who was neither her lover nor her husband, and I'll tell you the reason from her lips. It's a much better one than some of our gun-toting ladies of Chicago have been giving lately.

Madame Negri, apparently subdued by mourning and marriage, is not a tempestuous Pola in this picture. She is an intriguing, graceful, watchful Pola, looking out at the world with soft, doe-like appeal in her eyes. Far from her the urge to willingly hurt, let alone kill, any living thing until, well—a dear mother, WILL, turn and strike at a lion with fragile hoofs when her baby is in danger!

Madame Pola's portrayal of Julie is thoughtful, artistic, and effective. Jean Sarti plays a hard hearted, jealous husband as one well acquainted with the species. Einar Hanson, killed tragically recently, is seen as the man and the heroine loves. He coughs naturally and his makeup was truly tubercular, as it was supposed to be. Mr. Hanson was an able actor, but not much is demanded of him in this role.

The other players know their business and go about it efficiently. Direction and staging and photography are commendable.

There are films in which Pola, the actress, has stirred you more—but not one in which you like the woman better.

"Fair Co-ed" Is After Sennett Manner—Quite a Way

This is what might be termed a standard pie college picture. It is directed after the Sennett manner only not so well as Mack would have done it, and in it Marion Davies does the sort of things Mabel Normand used to do, only not so well as Mabel used to do them.

The idea seems to have been to present Miss Davies as a female William Haines. A mistake, if true, for this young man is in a class by himself as a likable smart aleck. These endeavors to imitate him have succeeded only in being common and tiresome.

The fair co-ed goes to college because she has a case on the coach of the girls' basketball team. She joins the team—and joins; is accused of being yellow, proves she's not, and in the end, wins the game for dear old Alma Mater and Bob's heart for herself.

The film's assets are a temperamental parrot, an exciting basketball game, some fine photography and Jane Winton. The liabilities you can figure out for yourself. George Ade, I believe, wrote the story on which the film is founded.

See you tomorrow!

Ira Nelson Morris Gets Roumanian Decoration

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Ira Nelson Morris, Chicago packer, was decorated today by Prince Nicholas, in behalf of the regency, with the grand cordon of the star of Roumania. This honor was conferred upon him for "services to Roumania and his never failing efforts to promote friendly relations between Roumania and the United States."

This decoration is the highest within the gift of the crown. Prince Nicholas referred to the work of Mr. Morris and his wife in relieving distress and repatriating Roumanian prisoners of war in enemy countries.

Mr. Morris has undertaken to put the Roumanian government in touch with American bankers with a view to negotiating a loan of $50,000,000.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune, 4200 Ellis avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Do you think women in the next clothes as fast as they have in the last 25 years?

Where Asked.

Wabash at Randolph street.

The Answer.

Miss Betty Weidman, 161 East Superior street, music student.—I don't believe it is possible. Women's clothes have been reduced to almost the minimum for summer or winter wear. Unfortunately, the coat has advanced to almost a maximum. So a woman's clothes burden is not one of weight.

Roy Hope, 841 Crescent street, decorator.—It is not impossible. Twenty years ago they wore skirts as big as an automobile. Today they are up to and above the knees, what there is of them.

And when they are in a public conveyance—man, man!

Miss Margaret Conley, 512 East Erie street, model.—I believe the pendulum will soon swing back. Not all women create an artistic effect in short skirts.

I would, and I believe many other women would, like to see sensible and modest clothing again.

George Graham, 2330 Indiana avenue, embalmer.—I don't know whether they could do much more shedding. We will have to give them credit for accomplishing much in that direction in the last fifteen years or so that I remember.

How far they can get away with it, goodness may know, I don't.

Miss Margaret Conley, 512 Hamilton street, student.—Faster. At any rate, they haven't been so slow. What would happen if they did. My friend here replies, "nothing." I hope they don't do one inch farther. Most women look best in dresses of some length.

Philharmonic of New York Wins Applause

Fine Performance Given of Brahms' Symphony.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

William Mengelberg paid his first visit to Chicago last night by directing a program of the New York Philharmonic orchestra at Orchestra hall, and both conductor and orchestra made the hit that visiting orchestras and visiting conductors are likely to do. For that matter it is a good thing of years since the Philharmonic played here last.

It is a first class organization, and the stocky, shaggy haired conductor from Holland is both musician and showman, a combination that can usually be counted upon to draw applause.

The first part of the program was planned as a demonstration of the orchestra's virtuosity, a concert of a first horn and first violin, a concerto of modern times by Vittorio Rieti, founded on native Italian tunes, to the woodwinds. Billings Hospital and Epstein Clinic Dedicated at U. of C.

Dedication yesterday of the Albert Merritt Billings hospital and the Max Epstein clinic, completed the two day program of the University of Chicago in connection with the 148th convocation of the institution and the formal opening of the group of newly completed medical buildings on the campus.

Dr. Frank Billings, uncle of the late Albert Merritt Billings, represented the Billings family in the formal presentation of the new hospital, which was opened to patients on Oct. 3.

President Max Mason, in accepting both gifts in the name of the school, paid tribute to the humane spirit that inspired them, and expressed the appreciation of the institution. Through them, he said, the highest type of medical training known to science and history is provided at the university medical school.

Shailer Mathews, dean of the divinity school, pronounced the invocation at the ceremonies, which were followed by a luncheon for the distinguished delegates from many states and from abroad who were present.

Rufus Cole, director of the hospital for the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, spoke on "The Hospital and the Laboratory." At the dedication exercises, clinical lectures were delivered during the afternoon by William S. Thayer, professor emeritus of medicine of the Johns Hopkins medical school, and Everts Ambrose Graham, professor of surgery, Washington university school of medicine.

The greatest field for physical therapy today is the development of methods for reducing the time necessary for restoration of the time of injured workers. It has become an economic question. In the business world men find they cannot spare the time for natural recovery, and insist upon our speeding up nature.

'Physician, Heal Me Quick,' High Speed Age Plea

Overshadows All Other Demands, Doctors Say.

The problem of high speed cure and restoration of function is overshadowing all other necessities in the normal practice of medicine today, it was pointed out yesterday at the sixth annual College of Physical Therapy, in session at the Hotel Sherman.

America's demand for and realization of top speed in business, in recreation, in education, in travel, and in physical exercise is now supplemented by an increasing demand for almost instant recovery from injuries, illnesses, and disability, it was explained. While science plods slowly and steadily through the fields of research on the subjects of cause, prevention, and treatment of human ills, the practitioner is faced with a growing impatience for high speed action by nature when the body breaks down.

Manipulating the Parsnip.
Parsnips are inexpensive. The fact that they are a cousin to celery is not too well known. Once known, and ways found to develop the gentility in them, or to modify a flavor that is a rank one in the original celery family, the parsnip may become a family favorite.

Take this recipe, which makes a good little supper dish—on a hot platter—containing practically all the food elements, since milk yields the protein, the butter a fat, etc. Wash and boil parsnips and rub off the skin. Slice them lengthwise in knife thin slices, because they seem different and most attractive in this fashion, a fashion not usual in vegetable dishes. Heat a tablespoon of butter, or more, according to need, in the frying pan and shake the thin and large slices of parsnips in this to heat them hot and to coat them with butter.

Put them in a hot place on a hot platter, on which they are much more effective than in a deep dish, and then make a sauce of rather thin consistency—a cup of liquid to one tablespoon of butter and one of flour. But or cool and add cold milk or cream, to make a sauce of rather thin consistency—a cup of liquid to one tablespoon of butter and one of flour. But it can be thicker if to taste, though we believe the thin sauce on the buttered parsnips superior.

Another supper dish for two requires only one boiled parsnip. Rub off the skin, wash and remove any stringy part, add one egg and season with salt and a bit of pepper. Beat well and take it up by tablespoons into a pan with a tablespoon of hot butter in it or pork fat, and form with spoon and spatula, into nice other side.

It will make four. Brown on one side over a moderate fire, turn with the spatula, and brown on the other side.

WANTED—MALE HELP.
Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.
AAA
YOU, THE READER OF THESE COLUMNS, ARE INTERESTED IN MAKING MONEY.
This I take for granted.
Here is my offer to you:
I am representing the interests of one of the largest corporations in this country. I need the services of a few capable men who have sold successfully high class merchandise, including real estate, bonds, or insurance.
To the man I select there is a great big, bright future ahead. To qualify you must be clean cut, with responsibilities on your shoulders, and a burning desire to make money.
I shall be pleased to interview men with the above qualifications and with no set ideas as to how the world should treat them, but rather with determined views as to how they can command the respect of the world.
Come before 2:30 on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday at the Hotel Sherman and ask at the desk for a personal interview with F. Henderson.

A WELL GROOMED, EXPERIENCED SALESMAN WANTED.
We are a established company. Our product is a nationally advertised one that continually repeats, and we are looking for a man who will sell upon a commission basis.
The territory we have open is a local one. The work is dignified, and will call upon the best of the community.
The average earnings of our men are from $80 to $125 a week, year in and year out.
We want a man who is neat appearing, who can furnish the best of character, is a healthy, clean, and honest in the selling field, and who appreciates that he is making a valuable contribution to a reliable, established company, working on a commission basis. It is something more than "just a job."
You do not need experience in our line. We will train you.
We are looking for a permanent position with a company you can be proud to be a part of. We will meet your qualifications regarding character, appearance, and ability, and we will pay you a salary of $100 per week.
Address P. O. 183, Tribune.

ABSOLUTE SUCCESS SELLING XMAS CARDS AND Big-Value Book Assort.
Earn $600 to $1,000 before Xmas with the premier line of the field; big commissions and a healthy office. You are WORTHY. CAMBRIDGE PARKS, 25 W. Monroe. Open early for your commission.

ACTIVE SALESMEN TO WORK FRESH LEADS DAILY.
I need 2 active salesmen who are willing to work. Well established concern of 20 years. I have a steady flow of leads. We furnish newspaper leads daily from both Chicago and St. Louis. We are ready to furnish. With our co-operation you should be able to make $100 to $150 per week in selling not entirely necessary. See Mr. J. H. Thompson, 100 W. Madison, Room 302, Gen. Sales Manager, 100 N. La Salle, R. 592.

ACTIVE YOUNG MEN,
Willing to work hard, with a chance to make big money. We have a wonderful opportunity for any young men between 20 and 30 years of age. No experience necessary. Salary, expenses, commission. See Mr. J. H. Thompson, 100 W. Madison, Room 302, Gen. Sales Manager, 100 N. La Salle, R. 592.

WERNER PIANO CO.
1324 Milwaukee-av.
AD SELLING IN LOOP FOR COMMUNITY. We are looking for a man with a good knowledge of piano and a good knowledge of the piano business. We have a steady flow of leads. We are ready to furnish. With our co-operation you should be able to make $100 to $150 per week in selling not entirely necessary. See Mr. J. H. Thompson, 100 W. Madison, Room 302, Gen. Sales Manager, 100 N. La Salle, R. 592.
